Tidal Wave Warning

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Coast Guard warned Friday night that a possible tidal wave from the Alaskan earthquake could develop on the Pacific Coast and at Hawaii about 1 a.m. PST.

The warning was issued to shipping all along the Pacific Coast of the United States and Hawaii.

"We don't know whether a tidal wave will develop," said a spokesman. "We'll have to watch reports. This is a precautionary measure."

High Waves in Bays

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The earth moved slightly over southern Louisiana Friday night, causing sudden waves up to six feet in bays and basins.

Some small boats were overturned or smashed, but there were no reports of injuries or major property damage.

The earth movement, more of a rolling action, occurred approximately the same hour as the major earthquake in Alaska.

Boats Tossed

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Boats tossed violently Friday night in freakish tides, presumably caused by the Alaskan earthquake.

The Weather Bureau reported a 6-foot wave of undetermined origin was surging down the Gulf Coast, snapping lines and rolling sizable ships.

Coast Guardsmen at Freeport warned residents of low areas to expect a 6-foot tidal wave followed by rough seas.

At Port Arthur, a watchman for the Kansas City grain elevator reported the tide dropped between 6 and 7 feet at 10 p.m. and a loaded grain ship bobbed up and down like a cork six or eight times.

At Kodiak City, the Navy was evacuating its base for fear of a tidal wave. All people living in Kodiak, at whose head lies the Anchorage International Airport, were ordered evacuated to higher ground.

Egan described the situation runway were reported torn up as "real bad."

The dock apparently went in and the water supply was knocked out.

An unconfirmed report from Civil Defense headquarters here said there were about 30 people standing on the waterfront at Valdez when it washed out. A ham radio operator said there were two confirmed deaths.

In Seattle, the University of Washington seismologist said the earthquake apparently centered in the bay across from Seward. He had previously said it might have occurred in the Aleutians, traditional breeding ground of Alaskan earthquakes.

The Seward area is about 150 miles northwest of Seattle and earth tremors were felt there. They were also reported in British Columbia.

The earthquake hit here at 5:37 p.m. (8:37 p.m. MST) and was so strong it knocked out the measuring equipment of the Coast and Geodetic Survey. No damage was reported in Fairbanks proper, but there was minor damage in the city some reported at Eielson Air-Base, 900 miles northwest of Edmonds. All communications to Alaska from Whitehorse were cut.

There was no immediate report of injuries.

There was a report from Vince Gehliss, Civil Defense coordinator, that Seward was "half gone and on fire." A Standard Oil tanker was tied up there when the earthquake hit, but apparently broke away and was burning in the bay.

Jet Bomber Crashes, Crew, One Boy Killed

JACKSONVILLE, Ark. (UPI) — A B47 jet bomber, its tail blown off and burning from a small explosion, Friday nosed-dived straight down into a barn where two young boys were playing.

All four men aboard the plane and one of the boys were killed. The other boy was injured critically. One of the air-crewmen, 1st Lt. L. V. Christian, 27, the copilot, tried to eject at the last minute. His body hurtled through the roof of an

Korean Students Are Anti-Japanese

SEOUL, Saturday (UPI) — Fifty-thousand students staged anti-Japanese demonstrations in 15 South Korean cities Friday and forced President Park Chung Hee to recall political boss Kim Chong Pil from Tokyo.

In Seoul where 10,000 students demonstrated, 500 tried to crash the heavily guarded wire barricades that surrounded the presidential palace. They battled police with stones before they were subdued with clubs.

Rusk Rejects Call To End Boycott Policy on Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., endorsed Sen. J. W. Fulbright's challenge to the administration to accept Communist Cuba as a nuisance rather than an intolerable menace to the United States.

Aiken thus differed with many Republicans and some Democrats who have accused the Arkansas Democrat of favoring a policy of appeasement. Fulbright, who is chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, gave his views on Cuba and questioned several other U.S. foreign policy positions in a lengthy Senate speech on Wednesday.

Aiken, a senior Republican on Fulbright's committee, said Friday he agrees the U.S. boycott of Cuba is a failure and added that even if Western Allies had supported it, "I've never known

"He returned twice to complete the job. If we had been called when he first attacked, the woman might not be dead now."

The victim was Catherine (Kitty) Genovese, 28, a bar manager, who was stabbed to death as she returned home from work at 3:20 a.m. She lived on a quiet, middle-class, tree-lined street.

Six days after the slaying, police arrested Winston Moseley, 29, a negro, and charged him with homicide. They said he admitted he killed Miss Genovese because he had an urge to kill. Two days ago, a judge committed him to a hospital for mental observation.

The Times, which published a detailed account of the case, said in part:

Miss Genovese noticed a man at the far end of a parking lot where she had left her car.

Jerry Mock Set to Fly, Joan Smith Faces Delay

SANTA MARIA, The Azores. Columbus, Ohio, aviatix was this town's heroine Friday night. She had piloted her Cessna 180 for 13 hours to land at Santa Maria Airport at 7:18 a.m. (4:18 a.m. EST).

U.S. Air Force Gen. John Merriam Smith of Long Beach, Calif., was forced to delay resumption of her planned round-the-world flight Friday.

Mrs. Smith said she hoped to take off early Saturday. She originally was scheduled to leave Thursday for Natal, Brazil, but was forced to postpone the flight because of a fuel tank defect. She arrived here Sunday from San Juan, Puerto Rico.

She is planning to fly around the world on a route paralleling that of the late Amelia Earhart on her unsuccessful globe-girdling effort 27 years ago.

Says Fidel In Threat To Americas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk rejected Friday Sen. J. W. Fulbright's call for an end to the administration's Cuba boycott policy. Rusk said Fidel Castro is "more than a nuisance—he is a threat to this hemisphere."

But Rusk agreed with other major segments of the controversial speech by the Arkansas Democrat, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. (Turn to Page 5, Column 3)

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pope Paul VI offered a prayer for peace Friday and said Christ is being morally crucified even today "by modern and able persecutors."

The pontiff's Good Friday message came at the end of a torchlight procession that wound through the ruins of ancient Rome—still wet from an afternoon rain—to recall Christ's journey to the cross.

At the 13th Station of the Cross, the pontiff said: "Christ is being morally crucified even today 'by modern and able persecutors.'"

Troops Leave Island

WASHINGTON, Saturday (UPI) — The Defense Department reported early today that U.S. Air Force personnel had been removed from Kodiak Island because of a tidal wave generated by the earthquake in the Anchorage, Alaska area.

Aircraft at Elmendorf Air Force Base have been heavily damaged, the department said. No casualty reports had been received.

WASHINGTON (AP) — That odd mark on the face of the Kennedy half-dollar is the designer's version of his own initials, the Treasury said today.

Officials gave that explanation in response to a reporter's questions prompted by rumors that the mark represented the Communist hammer and sickle.

The initials of the designer, Gilroy Roberts, are run together and it is difficult to distinguish them.

The initials are at the base of the profile of the late President John F. Kennedy. On the reverse side, the initials of designer Frank Gasparro are much easier to read.

2 Ships Afire In Atlantic

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (UPI) — Two ships—a Navy vessel and freighter—caught fire Friday in the Atlantic.

The Navy vessel USS Antares was reported ablaze about 10 miles east of Oregon Inlet off the North Carolina outer banks. It immediately struck out for port.

A Navy spokesman at Norfolk said the crewmen aboard the Navy vessel were safe and that the fire was concentrated in the No. 3 hold.

Salinger Wins Place In California Primary

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Pierre Salinger, aspiring to be U.S. senator from California, won a place Friday on the June 2 Democratic primary ballot over the opposition of the secretary of state and the attorney general's office.

Victory came in the State Supreme Court exactly one week after the 38-year-old press secretary for Presidents John F. Kennedy and Johnson returned from nine years in Washington and announced his plunge into a California political race.

Salinger faces 11 other Democrats for the nomination, including ailing incumbent Sen. Clair Engle and State Controller Allan Cranston.

The court, in a unanimous decision which it said is "final and forthwith," ordered Salinger's name on the ballot in the face of arguments that he had failed to meet state requirements both as a registered California voter and a certified Democrat in this state.

"The campaign is on," the cigar-chomping Salinger said exuberantly in Los Angeles on hearing of the decision.

Tuesday, Secretary of State Frank M. Jordan, a Republican, rejected Salinger's papers of candidacy. That same day, Salinger's attorneys asked the

CHURCHES OF THE PIKES PEAK REGION

Wheaton Academy Choir
The Wheaton Academy Choir of Wheaton, Ill., will present a concert of sacred music at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at Edison School and 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Woodland Park Community Church.

The fifty voice choir, under the direction of Thomas D. Fulghum, will be heard in a varied program of music ranging from the classics of Bach and Brahms to Negro spirituals and familiar hymns.

The choir is currently on its annual spring tour, this year traveling from Chicago to Denver and the Colorado Springs area, giving concerts for churches, youth groups, schools and military bases along its route.

Fulghum, the director, is a graduate of Wheaton College and taught music in the Arizona Public School system before taking his present position at the academy.

The public is invited.

The church is currently on its annual spring tour, this year traveling from Chicago to Denver and the Colorado Springs area, giving concerts for churches, youth groups, schools and military bases along its route.

Fulghum, the director, is a graduate of Wheaton College and taught music in the Arizona Public School system before taking his present position at the academy.

The public is invited.

Sacred Music Concert Set

The Wheaton Academy Choir of Wheaton, Ill., will present a concert of sacred music at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at Edison School and 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Woodland Park Community Church.

The fifty voice choir, under the direction of Thomas D. Fulghum, will be heard in a varied program of music ranging from the classics of Bach and Brahms to Negro spirituals and familiar hymns.

The choir is currently on its annual spring tour, this year traveling from Chicago to Denver and the Colorado Springs area, giving concerts for churches, youth groups, schools and military bases along its route.

Fulghum, the director, is a graduate of Wheaton College and taught music in the Arizona Public School system before taking his present position at the academy.

The Bible Missionary Church, 420 N. 17th St., is host for the Intermountain Conference of Ministers.

The Rev. J. E. Cook, General Moderator of the Bible Missionary Church, will be the featured speaker, as well as the Rev. Claude Bailey, District Moderator of the Iowa-Illinois District. Pastors and evangelists, their wives and families, as well as laymen from the Intermountain Conference area will be here for the convention.

The Rev. J. E. Cook, General Moderator of the Bible Missionary Church, will be the featured speaker, as well as the Rev. Claude Bailey, District Moderator of the Iowa-Illinois District. Pastors and evangelists, their wives and families, as well as laymen from the Intermountain Conference area will be here for the convention.

The local congregation is sponsoring the spring revival, which immediately follows the conference.

The cantata consists of three parts: "The Prophecies," "The Resurrection," and "Life Everlasting." Soloists will be Mrs. Frances Bruce, Mrs. LaVerne Bryant, Mrs. Bertha Smith, Mrs. Agnes Hart, Mrs. Olie Landley, John McDonald, Robert Brown, Jack Brown, Herman Mitchell and James Hill.

An Easter egg hunt will be held at 2 p.m. today. Groups participating are the church school, the Allen Christian Endeavor League, the young people's department of the Women's Missionary Department, and the Richard Allen youth group.

A motorcade will form at the church and proceed to Monument Park for the hunt.

Nazarene Church Changes Ritual
Each Easter Sunday, Nazarene Church of the Nazarene has presented special speakers and musical talent. However, this year the Rev. David D. Bailey and his associates have decided to present the church's function, organization and musical ability on a "get acquainted" basis.

Lynn Olney, Sunday school superintendent, would like members of the community to be in Sunday school at 9:30 a.m. to "get acquainted" with the school staff.

Ora Burdick, choir director, would like to share the musical ability of the choir and singing talents represented in the church. Choir and soloists will be heard at the 10:45 a.m. worship hour at 7 p.m. The Living Redeemer, an Easter cantata, will be performed.

The Rev. Bailey would like to share his sermon with friends of the community. He will present an Easter hymn to the family with the most generations present, the family with the most relatives present and to the largest family present. A gift will be given to everyone attending either the Sunday School hour or the worship hour.

The members of the church wish to extend a "get acquainted" invitation to residents of the community.

Beth-El Presents A Cappella Choir
The Goshen College A Cappella Choir will present a program of choral music at Beth-El Mennonite Church, 7:30 p.m. Monday.

Directed by Dr. Dwight Welby, professor of music, the 57-voice choir is touring the Midwest and Rocky Mountain area during the twelve-day Easter vacation. The choir will sing "O Lord Most Holy," by Anton Cruckner, "Alleluia," by Palestrina and "Is O'er" by Palestrina.

Goshen College is owned and operated by the Mennonite Church and is an accredited, four-year liberal arts college.

Hosts for the choir while it is in this area are First Mennonite and Beth-El Mennonite Churches.

P

The IMMORTAL

... and may we sing Hallelujah! For Christ the Lord is risen. The lilies are in bloom and men and angels are in jubilation.

Because He lives, we know we too shall live.

The Greeks were wrong.

Man is not mortal, but rather immortal.

For God hath set eternity in the heart of man.

This Easter, we share the immortality of Jesus Christ. His journey to Golgotha transfigured the cross forever, turning that symbol of suffering into a symbol of triumphant life.

Then let us live like women and men who expect to go on and on forever

... world without end. This is indeed our true Christian hope. This is what

Easter means to us today.

1964. By the Chicago Tribune

HAIR FOR HALO TYPE BALDNESS

Two years ago we reported good news for baldies—the successful transplantation of tufts of hair from the fringes of the scalp to denuded areas. The plugs taken from the hairy regions were grafted onto the shiny top in much the same way as a lawn is sodded with bent grass. Since the original report, other physicians have confirmed the efficacy of the technique.

The bare spots are anesthetized and small (1-7-inch) circular incisions are made with a special surgical punch. Other areas of equal size are punched on the hairy parts of the scalp, usually the fringe. Grafts are removed and fitted into place so that growth will be in the desired direction. The transplants show signs of taking root within 48 hours.

The redistributed tufts usually fall out in three weeks and regrowth can be expected within 8 to 10 weeks. Meanwhile, the lines left by the surgical punch heal and are barely visible because of the covering of hair.

Good cosmetic results are obtained when the patches are painted in the right spots, properly spaced. In receding hairlines the patches can be inserted above the forehead and, when the hair grows long enough, it can be combed back to cover the top of the scalp. In others, the fringe is rearranged so it will blend with the edge of a toupee.

But with the good comes the bad. The male type baldness follows a progressive pattern. What happens when the divot is removed from a part of the scalp destined to become bald in a year or two? The follicles are not aware that they have been relocated and fall out, according to their time schedule. Fringe hair, however, is likely to last a lifetime. Some day our researchers may be able to work out a share-the-hair project with bears or the Beatles.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

Fruits and Burning

L. R. writes: Whenever I eat a tomato or an orange, I get burning urine. Does this mean I have something wrong with the bladder?

Reply

This is doubtful because burning should occur at other times if inflammation of the bladder is present. Some persons react oddly to these fruits, possibly because they are allergic to them. On the other hand, burning may occur if the urine is too concentrated or too acid.

Can't Get Pulse

H. H. writes: What can you tell me about pulseless disease?

Reply

In this condition, an artery that brings blood to an arm and one side of the brain is obstructed, usually as a result of arteriosclerosis. The victim may develop dizziness, headache, faintness, or trouble talking or using the involved arm and leg. The pulse cannot be felt and the blood pressure is almost nil on that side.

Disturbed Digestion

J. S. writes: In what way does improper intestinal function interfere with digestion?

Reply

There are various ways in which this could happen. Overactivity of the stomach and intestine, for example, does not allow enough time for food to digest. Another illustration is a deficiency of certain enzymes, which interferes with the chemical aspects of digestion.

Kidney Problems

B. T. writes: Could a kidney disorder exist that would not show up in a urinalysis?

Reply

Yes. Examples are a renal stone and circulatory changes in the kidneys.

Aiken Differs With Other GOP In Cuban Stand

Aiken, in an interview, said the United States made a mistake when it broke off diplomatic relations with Cuba when Fidel Castro came into power during the Dwight D. Eisenhower administration.

Aiken voiced doubt, as did Fulbright, that Fulbright's proposals will prove popular in a campaign year, but said "if it makes people think, I'm glad he said it."

The Vermont Republican agreed with Fulbright that the United States should lead the way in seeking negotiations with Panama "and stop hunting for words" on which to base an agreement to start discussions over treaty revision and other grievances.

Aiken voiced opposition to what he called Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's "talk of stepped-up war" in South Viet Nam. Fulbright had voiced general agreement with U.S. policy in Viet Nam.

"I'm not the only one who is scared to death about what McNamara proposes to do in South Viet Nam," Aiken said, referring to a speech McNamara made Thursday night.

Aiken said if the United States ultimately should support an extension of the fighting into North Viet Nam, it almost certainly will bring Red China directly into the war, "and if we went into there with a million men, we couldn't defeat Red China without nuclear weapons."

But as for Cuba and Panama and a reassessment of U.S. trade policies toward the Communist bloc, Aiken said Fulbright "gave a correct analysis of the situation."

"I doubt if the country is yet ready to go all the way with him, but he is correct when he says Castro is more solidly in control than before our economic boycott," Aiken said.

"Cuba is neither a military nor an economic threat to us; it is a threat to Latin America as a training ground for subversion, but that is what the Organization of American States was set up to deal with."

Fulbright's position on Red China came under fire from Tingfu F. Tsien, Nationalist Chinese ambassador to Washington, who told newsmen he was shocked by the senator's statements. He said "so far as Asia is concerned, Fulbright's speech was very demoralizing."

Fulbright did not advocate recognition of Communist China but said in an atmosphere of reduced tensions in Asia it might be possible to strengthen world peace by drawing Peking into existing East-West agreements in such fields as disarmament, trade and education. Recognition, he added, could be considered only if Red China reverses its aggressive course.

Nixon Claims Indonesia Wrong

the Far East for his law firm, told a news conference. "President Sukarno (of Indonesia) is president of a great country... and President Sukarno would be well advised to handle the problems of his own country."

"The American people and I think the overwhelming majority of the United States Congress takes a very dim view of a country using American aid, either directly or indirectly, against a free and independent country."

Asked about a reported statement by Sukarno that American aid could "go to hell," Nixon said: "I would think that the United States Congress would feel likewise (about Indonesia)."

State Farm Income Lowest Since 1956

FORT COLLINS (AP) — A Colorado State University official said today farm income in Colorado hit its lowest point last year since 1956.

Ken Jameson, farm management specialist, said average income per farm was $3,088, or $773 less than in 1962. The chief reason, he said, was the decline in cattle prices.

Although gross income of Colorado farmers has risen about 36 per cent since 1950, costs have gone up approximately 61 per cent, Jameson said.

Killer Stalks Woman, Neighbors Do Nothing

nervously, she headed up Austin Street, the man grabbed her. She screamed, lights went on in a 10-story apartment house, windows were opened and voices punctured the early-morning darkness.

Miss Genovese screamed "Oh, my God, he stabbed me! Please help me! Please help me!"

From one of the upper windows in the apartment house, a man called down "Let that girl alone."

The assailant looked up at the man, shrugged and walked down Austin Street. Miss Genovese struggled to her feet.

The lights went out. The killer returned to Miss Genovese — now trying to make her way to her apartment. The assailant stabbed her again. "I'm dying—I'm dying," Miss Genovese shrieked.

Windows were opened again and lights went on in many apartments. The assailant got into his car, parked nearby, and drove away. Miss Genovese staggered to her feet, the assailant returned.

By this time, Miss Genovese had crawled to the rear of an apartment building and sought safety by entering one of the doors. The assailant, after trying two doors, found her slumped on the floor at the foot of the stairs. He stabbed her a third time — fatally.

It was 3:50 a.m. by the time the police received their first call. It was from a male neighbor of Miss Genovese. Police were on the scene in two minutes.

"I didn't want to get involved," the man sheepishly told the police.

Two weeks after the crime, witnesses in the neighborhood made up mostly of homes in the $35,000-to-$60,000 price range — found it difficult to explain why they didn't call police.

Police said most told them they had been "afraid" to call.

Rusk Rejects Call to Drop Cuban Boycott

tee, which has stoked election-year foreign debate.

Fulbright's Wednesday speech was a principal topic at a half-hour news conference held by the secretary of state.

The senator described as a failure the administration's policy of undermining Communist Prime Minister Castro by diplomatic and economic boycott.

Fulbright said it will not work in the future because other Western nations will continue to trade with the Havana regime.

He saw Castro as "a nuisance but not a grave threat" to the United States.

Rusk acknowledged that "economic isolation of Cuba has not been complete." But he said there has been "very substantial" success in reducing free world trade, shipping and travel contacts with the island.

He ruled out a shift away from the boycott policy unless the Castro government gives up its military-political ties with Moscow and its efforts at subversion in the Americas. And he said Castro is showing no signs of doing this.

In calling Castro a threat to this hemisphere, he cited in particular the "very direct threat through arms" to overthrow the Venezuelan "constitutional and democratic government" at election time last December.

A large cache of Cuban-origin arms was found in the South American country.

The secretary of state had kind words for Fulbright's main theses that "old myths" should be succeeded by new foreign policy concepts in the light of present day realities. He said the administration, in fact, has been facing up to realities in its foreign policy.

He termed Fulbright's address thoughtful and thought-provoking, even though "he was not speaking for himself, he was speaking for a trial balloon for the administration."

bullet 12 foot seas slammed the two ships together, inflicting some topside damage to the Half Moon and the cutter was forced to move off to a safe distance.

Coast Guard headquarters in New York said the cutter was using small boats to transfer fire parties aboard.

Sky conditions in the area were overcast and visibility was limited to about seven miles.

The cutter planned to escort the burning vessel into Bermuda.

On Friday, Salinger's attorneys filed with the clerk of the State Supreme Court a brief in rebuttal to Jordan's argument that the state regulations Jordan cited are unconstitutional.

In Sacramento, Jordan said he'd have to comply with the court order. But he said a new legal action may be upcoming to oppose Salinger's request to be listed occupationally as presidential press secretary.

"He-Salinger—resigned, on March 19 and filed for the Senate on March 20," Jordan said. "We may have to sue again on that question."

As recently as December, Salinger had voted as a Democrat in Virginia.

State Supreme Court to order their acceptance.

Thursday, a brief was filed with the court defending Jordan's position. The brief was signed by Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk, a Democrat. It had been drawn up by a Mosk assistant after he had talked matters over with the executive secretary of Gov. Edmund G. Brown, a Democrat.

Mosk had strongly considered running for the nomination Salinger now seeks. Reports circulated widely that Mosk was dissatisfied by Brown's handling of health after brain surgery.

The Nation's Weather

(Report furnished by U.S. Weather Bureau Station at Peterson Field)

Rather cool weather for this time of year continued from the northern Rockies through New England and in the Ohio Valley and middle Atlantic states Friday night.

Maximum temperatures were only in the teens and 20s Friday afternoon in the northern Plains and this is 15 to 20 degrees below normal.

Seasonable temperatures were reported across the southern states and west of the Rockies.

Maximum temperatures were in the 70s and 80s over most of Florida, Texas, and southern California.

Precipitation was reported in sequence during the afternoon hours Friday. A few isolated showers and thunderstorms occurred in southern Florida and near the coast of Texas and Louisiana.

Scattered light snow fell in the central Rockies and from the central and northern Plains into the western Great Lakes. There were a few snow flurries from the lower Great Lakes into northern New England.

Plan Ready for West Highway

A letter outlining tentative plans for highway routing through Manitou Springs, has been received by Mayor L. L. Longaker from Charles Shumate, chief engineer, Department of Highways.

In the correspondence, Shumate stated that the department will have planning developed to the point that we can present our proposed route in the area to the people of Manitou Springs in a public meeting, approximately May 15.

He said, "it, of course, must be understood that this plan will be subject to minor alterations as the final design progresses."

Shumate said that at this time, no funds had been allotted for either the right-of-way acquisition or construction.

"It is our opinion that it will be at least the Fall of 1965 before 'right-of-way' acquisition will start, and actual construction probably will not start until sometime in late 1966," he said.

Pope Paul Says Christ Morally Crucified Today

Cross the Pontiff took the five-foot black wooden cross and carried it for about 75 feet. He kissed it before handing it to an aide.

"The body of Christ is crucified still today, morally but heavily, in many regions of the world; the church of silence is still the suffering church," the Pope said.

"Jesus could say today to his modern and able persecutors: Why dost thou persecute Me (Acts 9:4). It is said for those who are the object of such unjustified treatment: It is unworthy for those who practice it, even when masked in legal hypocrisies," the Pope said.

Peace is even more necessary now because an infraction of peace in one spot has repercussions on the whole organizational system of nations, the pontiff said.

The Pope, his voice clear but rising and falling with emotion, spoke in the shadow of the Colosseum where Christians once were martyred.

There are present at this moment in our soul the geographical points where peace is injured, where it is threatened," he said.

To those men who work with rectitude to save peace we send a well wishing thought — and that men may know how to remain brothers in Christ, we send to the world, and to those of you here present to pray and hope with us, our apostolic benediction.

Love Says Lodge
Should Return
If He's Running

By JOHN M. NOLAN

United Press International DENVER (UPI)—Gov. John Love said today it would be best for Henry Cabot Lodge to return from South Viet Nam soon to state his views if he intends to make an official bid for the GOP presidential nomination.

Lodge, U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam and winner of the New Hampshire GOP presidential preferential primary, has not announced his candidacy or indicated he plans to do so immediately.

Love said none of the announced or unannounced candidates for the nomination have a sufficient edge at the moment to assure them of victory in the Republican national convention at San Francisco next July.

Love said there is no clear frontrunner at present but that one should emerge from the primaries in Oregon and California. He said the Oregon race would be particularly critical.

All top GOP contenders will be in the Oregon primary, including Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, and Pennsylvania Gov. William Scranton, and Lodge.

In California, only Rockefeller and Goldwater will be on the ballot.

Love said last year, said he thought Colorado was leaning toward Colorado, but the governor himself is leaning away from that statement currently.

Face Robbery
Charge in Denver

DENVER (UPI)—Dist. Atty. Bert Keating Friday filed charges of robbery and conspiracy against a Ft. Carson soldier and a Colorado Springs man who already face first degree murder charges.

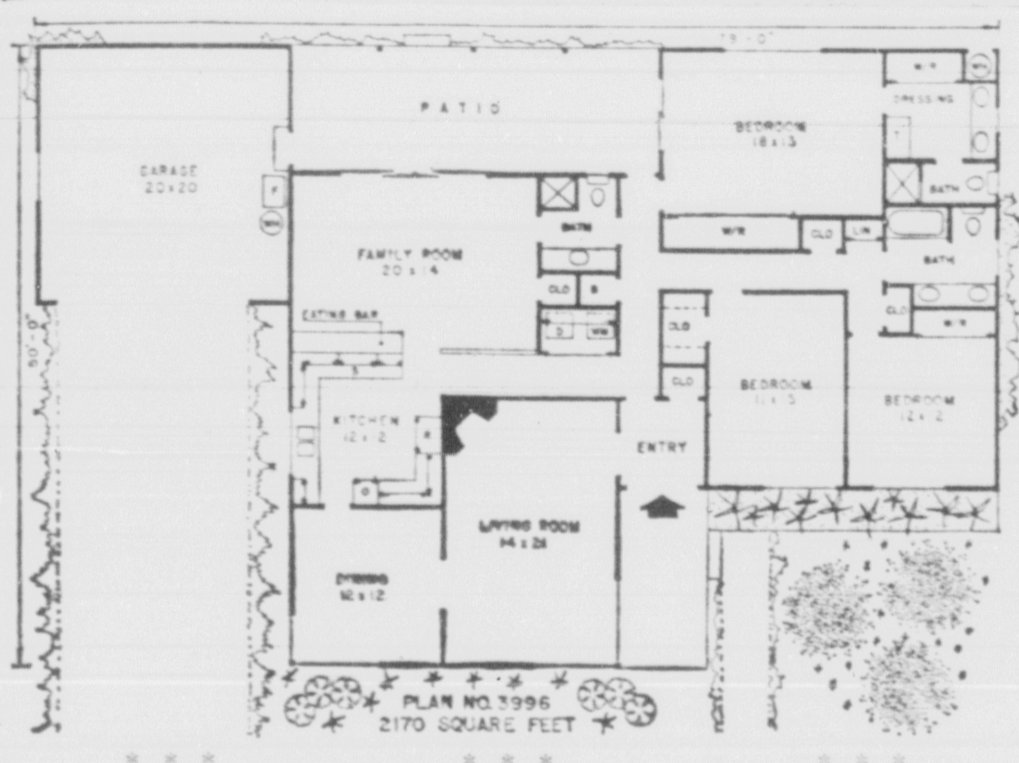

The charges filed in Denver District Court named Joel K. Whitman, 21, of Ft. Carson and Gary D. Adamson, 23, of Colorado Springs.

Keating charged the two men with murder in the March 16 accident in Denver which fatally injured Walter F. Hamilton, 47, of Arapahoe County.

The new charges accused Whitman and Adamson of the $76,000 stockpile of the Lincoln Creamery. The earlier charges accused the men of causing the fatal accident while fleeing from police after allegedly robbing the creamery.

Judge Edward Keating set arraignment for both men on both charges for Tuesday.

Keating said he would seek the death penalty because Hamilton

Methodist Church To Be Chartered

Approximately one hundred persons will charter and organize the new Aldersgate Methodist Church Sunday.

The first person to be baptized in the new church was Shirene Johanna, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Urton. The service was held in February when only the garden level walls had been erected and since everything was covered with snow, the Rev. Urton used the melting snow to baptize his daughter. The congregation feels this was symbolic of the pioneer spirit which seems to be prevalent among the members.

The name Aldersgate refers to a "heart warming" experience in the life of John Wesley, founder of the Methodist Church, in which he felt he trusted in Christ for salvation and was given assurance that his sins had been taken away.

The church now meets in the Bates School on Cragmoor Rd. with services from 10:30 a.m. to noon, but will move to the garden level of the parsonage at Mallow Rd. and Mt. View La. May 1st.

Baptist Group Presents Cantata

The Rev. Richard D. Yancey, pastor of First Southern Baptist Church, in cooperation with the music ministry, will present John Stainer's, "The Crucifixion," at 7:45 p.m. Sunday.

The church's minister of music, E. Ralph Gibson, is in charge of the presentation. Soloists will be Mrs. Ray Wotkey, Miss Jimmie Bennett, Keith Harris, Howard Jelle, Gene Forth, and Al Black. Mrs. James McCann and Mrs. LeRoy Nix will be the accompanists.

Trinity College Choir to Sing At Free Church

The First Evangelical Free Church will begin its Easter activities at 9:45 a.m. Sunday with a program of reading and music by the members of the church school Primary, junior and youth departments will participate.

The Rev. John N. Hedlund will deliver the message at the 11 a.m. service and the adult choir, under the direction of Mrs. Chas. Vansdale, will sing. There will be no services at 6 p.m.

The Trinity College Choir of Chicago, Ill., will present a concert at 7 p.m. Its varied program includes sacred classics, art songs, hymns and Negro spirituals. The choir has traveled widely during the past decade and this spring's tour is taking them through Iowa, Nebraska and Colorado.

Director of the choir is Morris Fagerstrom, associate professor of music and chairman of the Music Department at Trinity college. Trinity College is a four-year liberal arts college sponsored by the Evangelical Free Church of America.

Immanuel Church Has Four Services

Immanuel Lutheran Church will celebrate Easter with four festival services at 7, 8:15, 9:30 and 10:45 a.m. Sunday.

At the first three services a brass and string choir will accompany the adult choir. "Christ Is Arisen" a contemporary cantata by Jan Bender, will be presented, in part, under the direction of Kenneth Schlueter. The instrumentalists are Natalie Irrera, Paul Stalmann, Helen Stalmann, Joy Greenleaf, Lloyd Brewer, Dan Johns, John Holmes and Kenneth Kerr.

An Easter breakfast will be served from 8 to 10 a.m. in the church basement by the St. Walther League.

Missionary Guests At Baptist Church

The services at Bethany Baptist Church will be held at 8:30, 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. Sunday. Children's classes are at 9:45 a.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Buck, former members of the church, now serving as missionaries in Africa, will be the guest speakers at the evening service. They will illustrate their talk with pictures of the work they are doing there.

The installation of a new public address system has been completed and will be in use for the first time Sunday.

Extra parking space has been provided at the Enco Service Station, east of the church.

The public is invited to attend the services.

Easter Egg Hunt For Youngsters

The Easter Festival will be celebrated with three services at 8:30, 9:45 and 11 a.m. Sunday at First Lutheran Church.

In between the services, the junior high school choir will be breakfast guests of their sponsors, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Pounds.

Immediately following the services the Rev. C. J. Thearle, pastor, will leave for a week of meetings in Minneapolis, Washington and New York.

The traditional Easter egg hunt on the church grounds will be held at 10 a.m. today. Youngsters from 3 to 12 years of age will participate.

Sunrise Service At Redeemer

Redeemer Lutheran Church will again have an Easter Sunrise Service at 6 a.m. followed by regular services at 8:30 and 11 a.m.

The youth of the church will sponsor an Easter breakfast, 7 a.m. to 8:15 a.m., in the new school building. Both the junior and senior choirs will sing at the services.

Glee Club to Sing Choral Program

The Women's Glee Club of Otterbein College, Westerville, Ohio, under the direction of Dr. L. L. Shackson, will present a program of choral music on Easter Sunday evening at the First Evangelical United Brethren Church.

Otterbein College is one of the institutions of high learning of the Evangelical United Brethren Church. The chorus of sixty voices will sing earlier in the day at the Air Force Academy's sunrise service.

The public is invited to attend the concert. There will be no admission charge.

Reception Honors New Members

Three identical Easter Sunday morning services are scheduled at First Presbyterian Church, 8, 9:30 and 10:55 a.m. Music will be furnished by the adult choirs.

A class of new members will be received at the 7 p.m. evening service. The group includes thirty-five children and young people who have completed the communicant classes conducted by the Rev. Spencer W. Marsh, Jr., associate minister in charge of youth work.

Following the evening service, an informal reception honoring the new members will be held in the Centennial Room.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd B. Hurst and their daughter Susan, 89 Vessey Drive, spent 10 extremely pleasant days in Kerrville, Tex. Mr. Hurst's family all live in Kerrville, which is known as the "Hill Country" of Texas. It may be surprising to those of us who live in snowbound Colorado to know that all the trees and flowers were out and that the average temperature during the Hurst's vacation was around 80 degrees.

The Girl Scouts of the Black Forest neighborhood presented an International Friendship program Sunday afternoon, March 15, at Community Hall. The hall was decorated with colorful travel posters from many foreign lands. Doll dresses of foreign Guide and Scout uniforms were on display. A large world pin and circle of friendship were on the platform to help create an atmosphere of international friendship. The third grade Brownies of Troop No. 108 offered the program with the flag ceremony. The two junior troops No. 279 and No. 339 presented scenes that depicted "How Scouting Started in the United States." Senior Scouts at "Our Chalet in Aldeboden, Switzerland," and Seniors at "Our Cabana in Mexico." Brownie Troop No. 108 enthusiastically performed the German folk dance "Ach Ja." Senior Scout, Vivian Kibler, told about the international visiting program. Each troop took part in the filling of a World Association Pin with dimes for the Juliette Low World Friendship Fund. This pin is the badge of the World Association of Girl Guides and Girl Scouts. All Girl Scouts of the United States wear this pin as well as all Guides and Scouts from other countries. Honored guests at the program were the president of the Wagon Wheel Council and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Simpson; the chairman of Evergreen District and her husband, Captain and Mrs. Aron Holm; and the camp director for the Council, Miss Jan Canty.

The Cadettes of Troop No. 1 participated in the program by dressing a doll in the costume of a foreign country and baking cookies from the same country. Christine Bittner chose Japan; Jacqueline Carpenter, Holland; Linda Kibler, Germany; Judy Radspringer, Denmark; Debbie Stream, Mexico; Cassandra Knutson, France; Patricia Johnson, Norway; and Carol Albertson, Great Britain. Two of the Cadettes prepared an Oriental table. Patricia Johnson, in full kimono and Obi, acted as hostess at this table. She was assisted by Judy Radspringer, in full Cadette uniform. This table was decorated with an Oriental flower arrangement. Green tea was served in Japanese tea cups, accompanied with fortune cookies, Zembli, and rice cookies, made with rice flour. The Cadettes decorated the other serving tables with their costumed dolls, flags of the specified countries and flowers. The younger set was served koolade and sacks of popcorn. Mrs. Babs Watson, costumed attractively in a pink Oriental costume, poured coffee. The Girl Scouts, their leaders and members of the Service Team wish to thank all those who participated in any way to make the program so successful.

The Volunteer Fire Department held its regular monthly meeting Thursday, March 19. The meeting was routine and was cut short because several members were not able to attend, due to the bad weather conditions that day.

Mrs. Betty Ware, Mrs. Anne Clark, Mrs. Mary Gilliam and Mrs. Lucia Luce spent the day in Denver last week visiting the Denver Art Museum, where an exhibition of paintings, sculpture etc., is being held. The exhibition is entitled, "Own Your Own." The outing was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

The Black Forest Men's Civic Association community-wide meeting has been postponed from April 6, to May 4. Further details with regard to time, etc., will be published at a later date.

George E. Smith, 27 Leprechaun Lane, is spending 10 days in Washington, D.C.

Falcon Nine in Debut On Road Against Lobos

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. — Hoped that a big stick will make up for a somewhat skinny arm, the Air Force Academy baseball team makes its debut this season here this afternoon in a double header with the University of New Mexico.

It will also be the first appearance of Lt. Col. Connie Sparks as the new coach of the Falcons, taking over for Capt. Wendy Lawrence who has piloted the AFA for the past several years.

This afternoon's twin bill will be the first of a 23-game schedule which the Falcons figure could put them again into the regional playoffs for a shot at the NCAA tournament. They've been involved in this season-ending series most every year but have yet to make it all the way to the nationals at Omaha.

Much will depend on the mileage Sparks can get out of the arm of his squad — the pitching staff. He has a couple regulars back from last year's team, including promising Pete Bracci who was outstanding as a sophomore, but they are few in numbers.

Bracci posted a 4-5 record a year ago, but had 80 strikeouts in 74 innings and a fairly respectable 3.29 earned-run-average. He undoubtedly will be considered the "ace" of the staff and is the probable candidate for starting chores in one of the games today.

Also back is senior Fred Olmsted who had a 3-2 record with the Falcons in 1963, but the lefty has had control problems in the past and he'll have to find the target if he is to help the team this spring.

Pitchers lost through graduation were crafty Gary Wallace and big Larry Backus, who both worked more innings last season than any others on the squad with the exception of Bracci.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Farewell

On the eve of the transition into a higher classification of athletics, three of the four local schools slated to advance to the State Class-AAA division this fall will have new football coaches at the helm.

The four schools — Cheyenne Mountain, Air Academy High, Harrison and Widefield — will end their association with the Class-AA Pikes Peak League because of the new state alignment eliminating the five divisions and trimming them to three: Class A, AA, and AAA.

From this corner we wonder how these schools will fair in the competitive triple-A division, especially in the playoffs when they will compete against schools with enrollments three times as large.

And three of the area schools will have to adjust to the higher calibre of competition under the direction of new head coaches.

The three coaches resigning for other sundry professions include Eldon Helm, Cheyenne; Bill Mondt, Academy High; and Frank Stancato, Widefield. All three coaches in the PPL called it quits within the last two weeks.

Helm was appointed principal of Cheyenne Mountain High School; Stancato accepted an assistantship at Notre Dame to complete work on his Ph. D.; and Mondt took a position with Gates Rubber Company as a production engineer.

All three mentors have contributed to the success in the PPL and they will be hard to replace. Mondt led the Academy High team to the state championship two years ago and Helm piloted the Cheyenne grid team to its first state title last season.

Although Stancato hasn't fielded a winning team, the former resident of Pueblo has compiled a commendable record at Widefield during his seven-year coaching stint. During that time, his teams compiled a 37-25 won-loss record.

It will be difficult to find replacements for Helm, Mondt and Stancato, particularly when considering the three schools will have to adjust for the triple-A competition.

Helm, who will assume his new position as Cheyenne's principal effective July 1, plans to continue his baseball coaching job through this season. The Indians were scheduled to kick-off their 1964 campaign today against Lamar in a twin bill engagement.

Should the Tribe win the opener, it would be the 106th victory for Helm during his eight-year reign as head baseball coach at Cheyenne. In addition to winning six PPL titles, the Cheyenne teams under Helm have won four state championships.

Justifiably, Helm's baseball teams have ruled as the PPL perennial power. When the Indians launch their defense of the League championship against Widefield, April 3, the Cheyenne team will attempt to record its 53rd consecutive victory in PPL play.

During the three years Mondt was head football coach at the Academy High, his teams wrote a remarkable 25-5 won-loss record. The Kadets won the state crown in 1962 by defeating La Junta, 14-7, to highlight Mondt's brief coaching career.

Mondt graduated from Colorado University with a degree in engineering and while attending the school at Boulder, he was an outstanding guard on the varsity football squad.

Colts Capitalize On Wildness For 6-4 Victory

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Houston Colts took advantage of Bob Anderson's wildness in the first inning to score five runs and went on to defeat the Kansas City Athletics 6-4 in an exhibition baseball game called after eight innings because of darkness Friday.

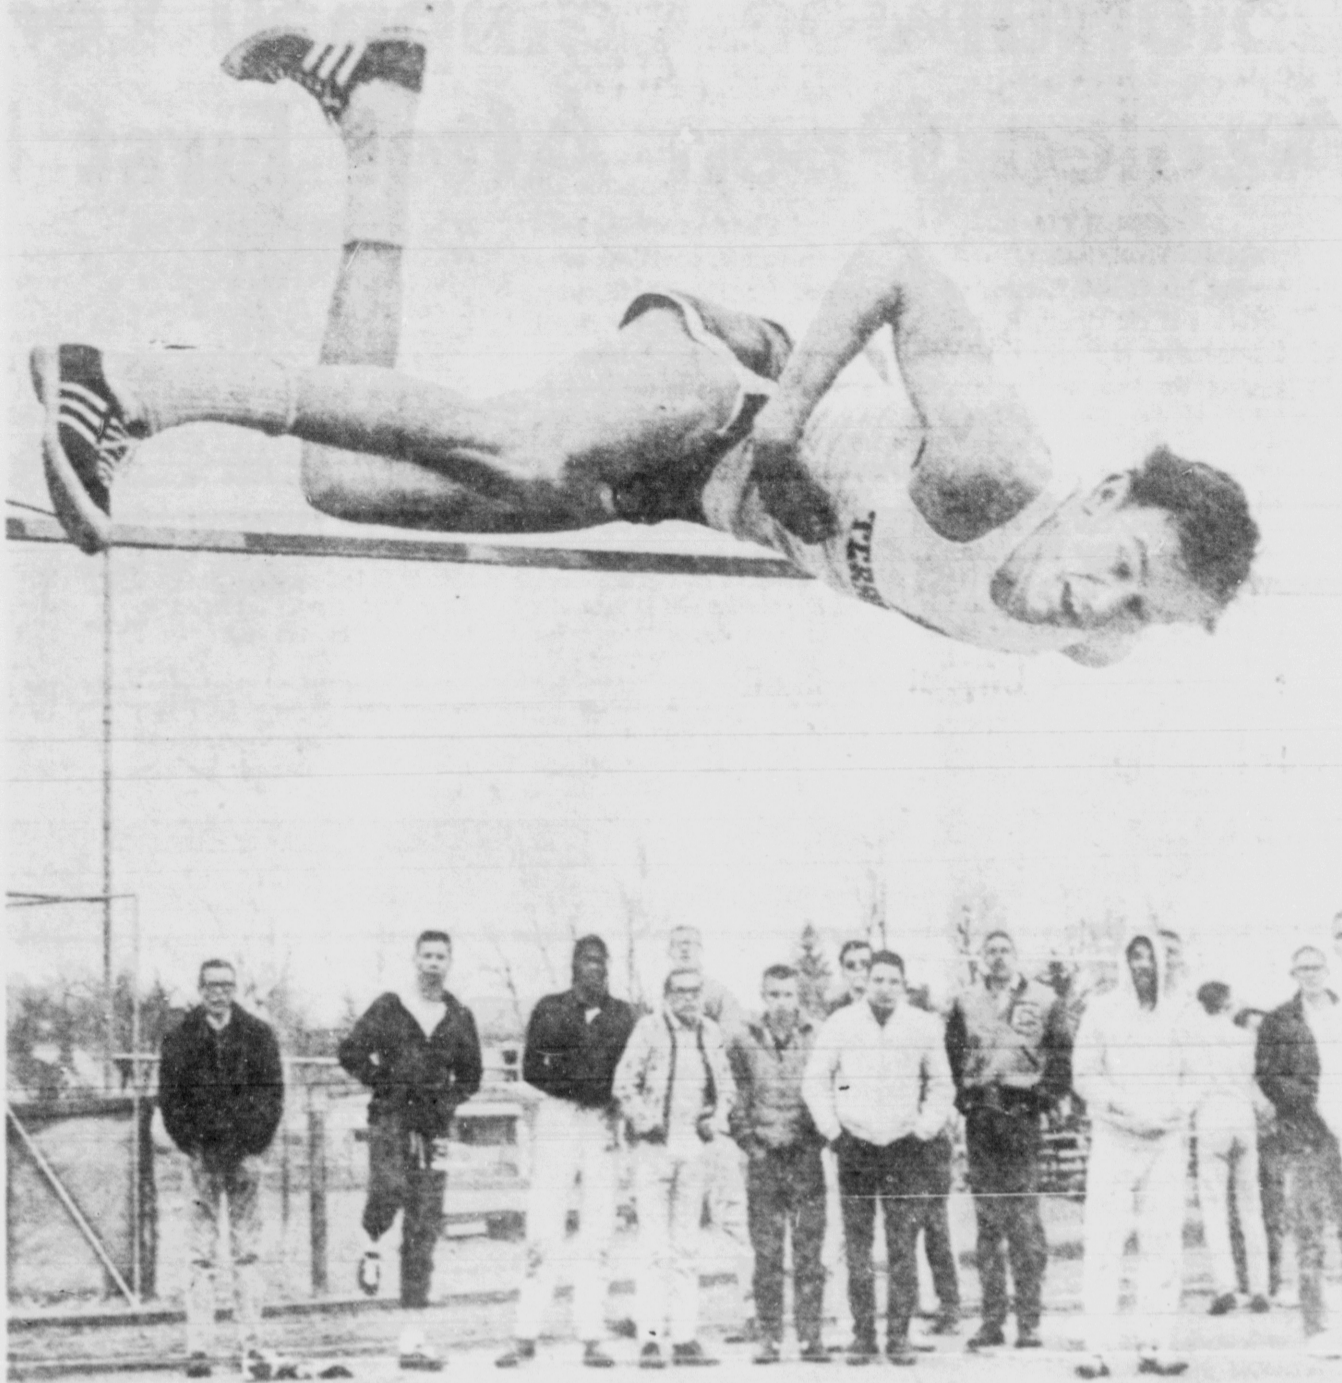

Eddie Kasko opened the first inning with a home run. The Colts scored two more runs on bases-loaded walks and pitcher Hal Woodeshick drove in a pair.

The Colts had a total of 12 hits against Anderson and Tom Sturdivant.

Woodeshick held the A's hitless over the first five innings but weakened in the sixth when he gave up three runs on four hits.

ELDON HELM Hard to Replace

OVER THE BAR — Palmer's Dennis Rice, the Terror's returning high jump ace, floats over the bar during the triangular track meet at Erps Field today. Rice, who played for the Tribe in the South Central League meet last spring, was fifth Friday in the event that was won with a school record jump of 5-4 1/2 by Wasson's Mike Martin.

'Birds' Coach Has Crocodile Tears As Team Wins Season Track Opener

By TOM CUSHMAN

Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Wasson's Jim Hartman, one track coach who figures a "crying towel" should be included with the standard equipment for each spring season. The past few weeks the Thunderbird mentor has given his 1964 cloth a thorough soaking — but Friday morning he got trapped with no one to wring it out.

Hartman, who had earlier suggested that the only slava-tion for this year's track team was for the entire schedule to be snowed out, launched Friday morning's meet with rival Palmer and Longmont, by predicting "This will be ridiculous."

It nearly was. Only Palmer's concentrated strength in the sprints and pole vault prevented the Thunderbirds from turning the season's first local circuit meet into a rout. Hartman's team splattered trumps won 10 of 14 events, set one school record, and were still performing without the aid of their top returning point-maker.

Actually the outcome at the Terror's Erps Field left the impression that Palmer and Wasson, the South Central League's two most consistent track powers, are in for another spring of tight intra-city competition. As for Longmont, the season's first meet left the Trojans with little except a long ride home.

Wasson ran up a winning total of 74 1/2 points. Palmer had 65 and Longmont managed just 8 1/2.

The meet, which had originally been scheduled for Wednesday before the latest deposit of spring snow interceded, was not run under the most ideal conditions Friday. Cloudy skies, snap breezes, and chilling temperatures had the spectators shivering and the competitors hustling to get back inside their warmup coats.

The postponement from Wednesday also handicapped both local squads as several regulars were missing due to either illness or spring vacation. Wasson was without Dominic Flacco, the defending SCL low hurdles champion who figures to be the lent strength in the pole vault team's best sprinter and is also an outstanding broad jumper. Standout Bob McCoy and the Terror's were missing clearing 12-0 for the victory. The Bobby Joe Williams, their other first place came from standpoint senior hurdler, who dash man Alan Snyder in the was out with a cold.

Nevertheless, there were 54-2 there, was also third in both some outstanding performances sprints.

For an opening competition, Wasson made up for the absence of Flacco by still capturing a potential star in versatile junior, ing firsts in his top events. Mike Martin, who won three firsts and set a school record in the high jump. Martin sailed drink captured the high hurdles, over 5-11 in that event to snap the existing mark of Larry Fur-da's and also captured the broad jump and low hurdles.

In addition, the Thunderbirds enjoyed fine work from their brilliant senior miler Jeff Berven. Berven, third in the state meet last spring, sped away from the pack on the second lap Friday en route to an outstanding early season clocking of 4:41.5 and then returned to anchor the victorious mile relay team with a seemingly effortless 44-0.

The Terror's who captured the four firsts not hogged by Wasson, had a fine showing from Jim Glaskin who won both the 100 and 220 yard dashes. Glaskin eased past the field in the 100 in 10.7 and then breezed home far to the front in the second of the 220 with a 24.9.

Palmer also uncovered excellent strength in the pole vault team's best sprinter and is also an outstanding broad jumper. After Upset... AFA's Isaacson Falls In NCAA Semi-Finals

Compiled From Wire Dispatches

ITHACA, N.Y. — Terry Isaacson, the Air Force Academy's two-time All-American wrestler from Oak Park, Ill., was thwarted for a third straight year from winning his weight class in the NCAA championship tournament here Friday night.

Isaacson, the AFA's quarterback during the football season, registered one of the tournament's big surprises in the quarter-finals but fell in the semi-finals on a 4-1 decision to Oklahoma State's Robert Zwiachner in the 167-pound division.

Earlier in the evening, Isaacson, who has never been defeated in dual meet competition in three years of wrestling at the Academy, scored a minor upset when he dealt Gary Screvens of UCLA his first defeat of the year in a bout that went to overtime and was settled on the referee's decision.

Meanwhile, Harry Houska, a swift 191-pounder from Ohio University, scored a third straight pin in Friday night's semi-finals to lead collegiate wrestlers from throughout the nation into tonight's finals.

Houska, runner-up in the 177-pound class last year, flattened Ronald Paar of Wisconsin in 1:24. In two earlier rounds he had pins in 4:50 and 1:02.

Six of the 20 finalists are from Oklahoma State, which has virtually clinched its 24th team crown. The Stillwater, Okla., team has a point score of 75, far ahead of any pursuer and an edge in the number of final-ists.

Oklahoma State finalists are Yngve Uetake in the 130 pound division, Mike Reding, 137, Bob Zwiachner, 167, William Harlow, 177, Jack Brisco, 191, and Joe James, heavyweights.

All finalists automatically qualify for the U.S. Olympic tryouts at New York Aug. 24-29. But Oklahoma State's unbeaten Uetake won't be among them. Instead he'll try to make the Olympics for his native Japan.

Only one former champion is in the final round, Dean Lahr, Colorado University 177-pound senior. In the semi-Friday he defeated Marshall Dauberman of Maryland, 12-1. His final foe will be Harlow of the Cowboys.

Houska's rival in the 191 final will be Brisco of Oklahoma State, who had little difficulty in downing John Gladish of Lehigh, 5-1.

One of the most impressive semifinal results was at 157-pounds where Dick Slutzky, Syracuse, defeated William Lam of Oklahoma, 7-5. Lam earlier in the day had taken out a former champion, Jack Flasche of Colorado State College.

One other former champion out of it is Jim Nance, Syracuse junior, who was bounced in the quarterfinals by Bob Billberg, Moorhead, Minn. State sophomore. It was Nance's first loss after winning 78 straight in high school and college.

The duel between Lam and Flasche was somewhat ironical especially since it involved two wrestlers from Colorado.

Flasche, from Fruita, Colo., won the NCAA title in 1962 but did not compete last year. He had lost only once this season, in a 177-pound bout at Wyoming University.

Lam, unheralded as a sophomore from Boulder, Colo., had an unimpressive 12-4-1 dual meet record and was unplaced in the recent Big Eight Tournament. He gained a takedown in the final few seconds for his winning edge.

Lam is the son of former Colorado University football great, Kayo Lam, who now is an official in the CU athletic department.

Quarterfinals

130 pounds: Joe Nitti, Colorado State, defeated Brett Johnson, Oklahoma State, 10-0.

137 James Hansen, Colorado, defeated Dave Schaefer, Southern Illinois, 10-0.

147 Jerry Nance, Oklahoma, defeated Jim Schaefer, Oklahoma State, 12-0.

157 William Lam, Oklahoma, defeated Jack Flasche, Colorado State College, 4-3.

167 Terry Isaacson, Air Force, defeated Gary Screvens, UCLA, 2-1, overtime, 1-1, referee's decision.

177 Dean Lahr, Colorado, pinned George Reed, Purdue.

SEMI-FINALS

137 Pound Class

Roger Sebert, Iowa State, defeated Charles Robb, Cornell, 5-1.

Terry Finn, Southern Illinois, defeated Jerry Tanner, Oklahoma, 2-1.

Fred Powell, Lock Haven, defeated Thomas Deane, Oklahoma State, 12-0.

Howard Garretted, Marshall State, defeated Don Neff, Colorado State College, 5-1.

150 Pound Class

Yngve Uetake, Oklahoma State, defeated Ted Lanksy, Pennsylvania, 7-2.

James Hansen, Colorado, defeated William Robb, Bloomsburg, Pa. State, 15-0.

177 Pound Class

Gary Wilson, Michigan, defeated Robert Ruzard, Iowa State, 5-1.

Michael Sauer, Oklahoma, defeated Jim Rogers, Oklahoma State, 6-5.

191 Pound Class

Donald Millard, Southern Illinois, defeated Leonard Kauffman, Oregon State, 8-0.

Robert Zwiachner, Oklahoma State, defeated Terry Isaacson, Air Force Academy, 4-1.

220 Pound Class

Dean Lahr, Colorado, defeated Marshall Dauberman, Maryland, 13-1.

William Harlow, Oklahoma State, defeated Gerald Francis, Navy, 7-2.

Heavyweights

Bob Billberg, Moorhead State, defeated Merrell Solomon, Toledo, 4-3.

Joe James, Oklahoma State, defeated Royce Hays, Kansas, 2-1.

Wasson, Palmer Scheduled For League Openers Today

League play starts for two of the local high school baseball teams — weather permitting — and several others are involved in non-league action in the first big weekend of spring sports around the Pikes Peak Region.

In Colorado Springs, the Terror's of Palmer High will kick off the South Central League schedule with a single game against pre-season favorite Pueblo Centennial at 10 a.m. at Memorial Park, corner of Pikes Pikes Peak Avenue and Hancock Street.

Wasson's Thunderbirds will meanwhile get started in their quest for a second straight SCL title on a trip to Pueblo to meet East's Eagles. That game is slated also for 10 a.m. at Pueblo's Runyon Field.

Later in the day, set for around 2:30 p.m. at Erps Field, Palmer will return to action in another single game against Lamar of the Southern Colorado League. This game may be a little late in getting started.

since Lamar is slated to take on Cheyenne Mountain in a double header in the morning before tackling their third game of the day against Palmer.

The Cheyenne-Lamar twin bill features the Pikes Peak League schedule as the Indians, defending State Class AA champions, open their season. These games are set for 10 a.m. at the Cheyenne Field.

Other PPL teams involved in non-league play are Air Academy High, which will visit the diamond of Brighton in an early afternoon tilt, and Widefield and Harrison, both entered in the Canon City Tournament at that city. The Canon City tourney is set for 10 a.m. with four games on tap.

All area track teams are idle this weekend.

On the collegiate front, the Air Force Academy will make its debut on a trip to Albuquerque to meet the Lobos of New Mexico University in a double header.

Manitou Pulls Out 8-7 Victory

Scoring five runs in the bottom of the last inning, Manitou Springs' baseball team came from behind Friday morning to nip the Palmer High "B" squad, 8-7, on the Manitou diamond.

Coming up with the bases loaded in the seventh, Bruce Heidenrich punched a single that scored Terry Martin with the tying run and Greg Gilbert with the winner.

Manitou had filled the bases in the last frame on four walks and two hits before Heidenrich's winning blow. His was the ninth hit off two Palmer hurlers. Gilbert picked up the win in relief after taking over for Keith Tanner in the fifth.

Palmer's Bees scored twice in both the second and fourth innings to take the initial lead, and they seemed to have it sewed up with three more tallies in the top of the seventh.

The victory was the second in four games for Manitou's Mustangs, after two defeats to the Wasson High "B" squad this week. The Mustangs will again be in action next Tuesday at 4 p.m. on the St. Mary's High diamond in the Pirates' opener.

Linescore: R H E
Palmer B 020 200 3-7 5 2
Manitou 009 030 5-8 9 2

CONVERTED BOXER — Frank (Showboat) Gibson, 6-6, 230-pound center with the Harlem Satellites, was working out as a boxer when discovered by the traveling basketball team's coach. He had been All-State for three years in Atlanta, Ga., and so his basketball talent quickly came back to him. Now in his second year in the middle of the show when the team plays the season with the Satellites, Gibson led the team last year in rebounds and was a top scorer with a 12-point average. He is also rated a great clown and will be in the middle of the show when the team plays the YMCA Stars at the City Auditorium, April 6.

Harlem Satellites Slated To Play YMCA Stars Here

Under the sponsorship of the addition to the exhibition game. Little Luther, the dancing midge, will head a brand new half-time show.

The Club "400" is sponsoring the April 6 event to obtain money for a scholarship fund drive in memory of Estella Gunter Pegus, a late member of the club and who for 17 years was devoted to the recreation field.

Advance tickets may be purchased at Rings Cigar Store, Blick's Sporting Goods Store, and Todd's Shoe Repair. Tickets will also go on sale the night of the performance. Tickets will sell for $1.25, $1.50 and $2.

Colorful Joe Campbell Leading Azalea Open After First Round

By KEN ALYTA

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Chunky Joe Campbell, using 67 strokes and six cigars, shot a five-under-par 67 Friday to take a one-stroke lead in the first round of the $20,000 Azalea Open Golf Tournament.

Resplendent in bright red shirt and socks and shoes with the black and gold of Purdue University, his alma mater, the 27-year-old Campbell shot the 6,744-yard Cape Fear Country Club course in 33:34 to wrest the lead from veteran Bob Gajda of Bloomfield Hills, Mich., part-time tourney pro, who fashioned his 68 on a pair of 34s.

With the temperature in the 60s and a bright sunshine bathing the course, conditions were perfect for scoring, following Thursday's rain that delayed the start of the tournament. As a result, 34 men in the field of 160 broke par and 23 matched regulation figures.

Campbell's round was his best in competition since last July. The Hoosier, who sat out three tournaments during the winter tour to rest an injured left hand, had five birdies and 13 pars. His longest putt was a 12-footer on the fifth hole. He missed only one green, the 16th, but chipped three inches from the hole for his par three.

The round won Campbell $600 in bonus money that goes to the daily low score.

He counted 31 putts and called it one of his top greens performances of the year.

The lanky Gajda, balding, bespectacled and 47 years old, had 10 one-putt greens and rolled in five putts of 15 to 30 feet in taking a lead that held up for about three hours.

He is best remembered perhaps as the first-round leader with 69 in last year's U.S. Open. After that start, he failed to break 80 in the next three rounds.

Five men shared third place at 69. Among them were two surprises, 24-year-old Rocky Mount, N.C., amateur Ed Jus-ta, and Dutch Harrison, who will be 54 years old Sunday. He won here in 1950.

Tommy Jacobs, Jack McGowan and Don Fairfield were others in the group. Thirteen men shot 70, among them Bruce Devlin, Gene Littler, Tony Lama, George Bayer and Lionel Hebert.

Billy Casper, winner at Miami, Fla., earlier this week, could do no better than par 72 and Jerry Barber, three-time winner and defending champion, took 74.

After Saturday's second round the field will be cut to the low 60 and ties and 10 amateurs for the final rounds Sunday and Monday.

Four Marks Bettered In NCAA

By LOU BLACK
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Four records were lowered and Roy Saari, Southern California's sophomore sensation, moved in front in his drive for a second gold medal in Friday's qualifying races of the NCAA swimming championships.

Saari, who captured the 500-yard freestyle Thursday in record time, lowered the NCAA 200-yard individual medley standard Friday afternoon with a brilliant 1:35.1. It cut two-tenths off the mark registered by Indiana's Ted Stokies last year.

Princeton's Jed Graef, Southern California's Bill Craig and Yale's Steve Clark also bettered listed records.

Graef, the Eastern champion for three years, paced the 200-yard backstroke qualifiers with a 1:56.5, four-tenths better than the mark established by Indiana's Tom Stock last year.

Craig's 200-yard breaststroke qualifying time was 2:12.5, two-tenths of a second better than the clocking of Indiana's Chet Jastremski last year.

And Clark's 1:45.1 in the 200-yard sprint bettered his listed 1:45.2 of a year ago. But Yale's speedster has a 1:44.9 made last week in the Easterns at Hanover, N.H., posted for official recognition.

Pirates Average High

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates turned in a team batting average of .323 in their first 11 exhibition games, the club said Friday.

A BIT OF MAGIC? — Golfer Jimmy Clark of Corona, Calif., looks as though he might be performing a magic act with his club during Friday's first round of the Azalea Open Golf Tourney at Wilmington, N.C. Actually, he had just hit a shot which he apparently thought was not too magical, and the club was tossed groundward. (AP Wirephoto)

K-State's Murrell Top Star

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Although his credentials may not be as impressive as some others, Kansas State's Willie Murrell has let it be known he'll be a threat in the East-West basketball game Saturday.

Murrell isn't among the 11 players in the game who were on the first three All-America teams this year, but he performed like an all-something in an intrasquad exhibition game.

The 6-foot-6 Wildcat scored 27 points and snagged 14 rebounds Thursday night at Cincinnati as his Blue squad was nipped 86-85 by the Whites. He led both teams in scoring and rebounding.

"Of course, it's a little different with Murrell," Coach Jack Gardner of Utah commented. "He's in better shape than some of the other players because he has been playing in the NCAA tournament."

"Conditioning is our biggest problem. Some of these boys haven't played for several weeks."

Gardner, who sends his East squad against Murrell and the West, coached by Slat Gill of Oregon State, said he's having a tough time trying to figure out who to start.

"It's awful hard to single out any of these boys. They're all so good," he said.

Gardner made it plain, though, that he is looking for speed in hopes of overcoming the West's height advantage. Only three West players are less than 6 feet 6 and only two East stars are more than 6-5.

"We hope for more speed, especially from our guard positions," Gardner said, mentioning Wally Jones of Villanova, Jeff Mullins of Duke and Howard Komives of Bowling Green.

"We also think we can play Cazzie Russell a little bit and that will be a help," Gardner said.

Russell, a 6-foot-5 sophomore from Michigan and a second-team All-America, has been held out of action because of a sore ankle.

Bobo Olson Wins Split Decision

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Cagey veteran Bobo Olson, the ex-middleweight champion, battled his way into the light-heavyweight title picture Friday night by battering young Wayne Thornton to win a split 10-round decision in a nationally televised fight.

To all but Judge Bob Mitchell, the fight seemed clearly Bobo's, but Mitchell ruled it a draw. Referee Vern Bybee scored it 7-3 and Judge Jack Downey 6-3, under the California system of giving the winner of each round from one to five points.

The Associated Press scored it 7-2 for the 35-year-old boxer who lost his middleweight title nine years ago.

Knocked out in his last three TV appearances — in 1955, 1956 and 1960 — Olson had as much trouble making the required 176-pound weight as he did beating his 24-year-old foe from Fresno, Calif., who weighed the same.

Olson let Thornton throw more punches but took advantage of the openings when they came, walloping home lefts to the body and right crosses and uppercuts to the head.

In the 5th, 7th and 10th rounds the Hawaiian-born Olson stunned his younger foe.

The Irishman recovered each time and there were no knockdowns.

QUICK COACHING CHANGE — Ted Owens is the new basketball coach at Kansas University, replacing Dick Harp who resigned Thursday. Owens, 34, an Oklahoma graduate, has been Harp's assistant the past four years. The announcement was made by Wade Simpson, new athletic director. (AP Wirephoto)

Celtics' Russell Thinks Of Retiring After Playoffs

BOSTON (UPI) — Boston off before the playoff finals? Celtics' star Bill Russell is considering retiring from the otherwise, would be crippling blow to the six-time NBA play-off champions who recently won their eighth straight regular season Eastern Division title.

Backcourt ace Bob Cousy retired just last year while two other Celtic veterans, Frank Ramsey and Jim Loscutt, already have announced they will not play next season.

Russell told United Press International that he might undergo minor surgery this summer, had been playing despite medical advice that his career could be ended by injury, and that it was "very possible" that he will retire next summer or the following year.

Club officials said they did not believe that Russell's retirement was imminent and said they felt Russell was "just depressed during this long lay-off."

Shrider Selected New AD at Miami

OXFORD, Ohio, (AP) — Richard G. Shrider was appointed athletic director of Miami University of Ohio Friday. He also will continue as head basketball coach.

Shrider, 41, who has been a successful basketball coach and player, had been acting athletic director since the death of John L. Bricks 10 days ago.

Next in favoritism probably will be the entry of Parka, 119, and Nashver, 112.

With 14 starters, the race will have a gross of $60,000 and the winner's share will be $40,000.

5--The Complete Grip

There is no one proper way to grip the club. There are many, just as there are many different sizes and shapes of hands, lengths of fingers and variations in overall body structure and strength.

Though your hands may perform suitably in the swing with one of several different grips, I do feel there are some things that you should look for and expect in your grip. If your grip doesn't provide them, see your professional.

1. Comfort. You should feel at home with your grip. A comfortable grip makes you feel confident. (One might experience some initial discomfort after switching to a different grip. This should gradually disappear.)

2. Control. There should be no slippage of the club at any point in the swing.

3. Feel. Though a firm grip is necessary to avoid slippage, you should obtain maximum feel by using a minimum amount of grip pressure.

Normally, I'd say that the pressure in each hand should be equally distributed among all the fingers.

4. Unity. For your hands to work as a unit they should fit snugly together, occupying the least possible space on the club.

Dundee's Push of Clay Forced Him To Fight

By BEN FUNK

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — When Angelo Dundee shoved Cassius Clay off his stool and forced him to go out and win the world heavyweight championship, it wasn't the first time the little trainer has egged a reluctant "I've had to push them out into the ring many times," the corner craftsman said Friday.

"As you work with a fighter in training, you find out the best way to get through to him. If he wants to quit when he shouldn't, you've got to act fast. Some you reach with abuse, some with kindness, some with gimmicks."

Clay, blinded by a caustic substance in his eyes, pleaded with Dundee after the fourth round of his fight with Sonny Liston last month to cut off his gloves and end it.

Dundee appealed quickly to the ego of the man who claimed himself "The Greatest."

"You can't quit now!" he shouted. "This is the big one! This is the one that puts us on top of the world!"

As the bell rang, Dundee jerked the stool from under Clay and pushed him into the ring.

Clay back-pedaled until his sight was restored. He eventually won by a technical knockout when Liston failed to answer the bell for the seventh.

"I could have been wrong," Dundee said. "I might have sent the kid out there to be flattened. But you have to make snap judgments at a time like this."

There is the story that when the Cuban heavyweight, Nino Valdes, wanted to throw in the towel during a fight with Ezzard Charles at Miami Beach in 1953, Dundee got him off the stool by sticking a pin in him. And Valdes went on to an upset victory.

"That was just a figure of speech," Dundee said. "What I did was give him the needle—you know what I mean. We had to badge him—in Spanish—and push him out every round."

Patterson Slated Against Machen If Not Cassius

NEW YORK (UPI) — If Floyd Patterson does not get a shot at Cassius Clay's heavyweight crown, ex-champion Floyd Patterson will fight Eddie Machen at Stockholm, Sweden, in July, promoter Al Bolan announced Friday night.

Young Bolan of New York, who was associated in the promotion of Patterson's last five title bouts, made his announcement after Bolan's Swedish promoter Edwin Ahlqvist, said in Stockholm Friday that Patterson and Machen definitely would fight on July 5 or July 12.

Rookies Dick Green and George Williams are the candidates for the second base job.

When Albie Pearson batted .304 for the Los Angeles Angels in 1963 he set a club record.

Athletics' Second-Division Finish Quicker Decision That Playing Site

Sixth of a Series
BRADENTON, Fla. (UPI) — It took all winter for the Kansas City Athletics to decide where they'd start the season but it takes only two minutes to figure out where they'll finish.

In the second division — and rather deep.

The A's wound up eighth last year, closer to ninth than they were to seventh, and although Manager Eddie Lopat thinks they could "move up a notch or two," he may be far more hopeful than practical.

If Lopat believes he can lift the Athletics as high as sixth, more power to him. And that's where the rub comes in. The club went out and obtained more power this past winter and added more pitching problems in the process.

Kansas City's principal new additions are outfielder Rocky Colavito and first baseman Jim Gentile.

Gentile's acquisition from Baltimore created no problem since the A's merely gave up first baseman Norm Siebern and may have strengthened themselves in the even-up swag.

The addition of Colavito is another matter, however. Not only did the A's send two pretty fair pitchers, Dave Wickersham and Ed Rakow, to Detroit, but also Jerry Lumpe, which now leaves a big hole at second base.

Colavito drove in 91 runs and hit 22 homers for the Tigers last year while Gentile, who had an off-year with Orioles, totaled 24 homers and 72 RBIs.

There's no question both will bolster Kansas City's attack and take a lot of the pressure off third baseman Ed Charles.

Outside of Siebern, Charles was the biggest gun in the Athletics' lineup last season, driving in 79 runs and hitting 15 homers while batting a disappointing .287.

Even with Colavito and Gentile added, Lopat knows he has his work cut out for him.

The A's don't even know what kind of a reception to expect when they move north and head home for Kansas City. Baseball fans there read the newspapers. They're aware that owner Charlie Finley tried to move the franchise first to Louisville and then to Oakland.

Finley finally made peace with the city fathers over his lease for the ball park. At least that problem is settled — for the time being. The next one will be molding a winner and Charles hopes he'll have one before his four-year lease runs out.

The only weak spot in the infield is at second base, with Charles set at third, Wayne Causey, who hit a satisfactory .280, at shortstop and Gentile at first.

Rookies Dick Green and George Williams are the candidates for the second base job.

When Albie Pearson batted .304 for the Los Angeles Angels in 1963 he set a club record.

CAPITOL STUFF

By TED LEWIS

WASHINGTON — Is it possible for President Johnson still to lose the November election when everybody — well, almost everybody — seems to be for him?

Of course it is, although one of these fine days some top Republican could well blow his top and propose that Lyndon be elected by acclamation.

The frustration comes from such successful Johnson political exploits as his speech Monday in Atlantic City to the United Auto Workers' convention. His out-party enemies had hoped that in a wine-soaked labor he would come a stranger in his delicate effort to woo his iness at the same time.

They underestimated the President, it is agreed here. He simply didn't ask for ALW support in the election, but asked their help in America itself, and the free enterprise system. He didn't even declare that he was "one of the truest friends of the working men and women of America" ever had — he said the man deserving that accolade from labor was John F. Kennedy.

We bring this up because the President's Atlantic City speech was his first big push for labor support. He will know it is up with another live broadcast tomorrow, before 3,000 building trades union leaders at the AFL-CIO.

So labor is for him. Business is also for him. Wall Street, after all, has been cheering him since he took office. He has been based on his voting record in Congress, primarily on the fact that in 1947, when a House member from Texas, he had voted for the Taft-Hartley Act.

His record in general on labor issues also was not pleasing at that time to organized labor. Exactly four years ago, on March 23, 1963, the AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education issued a report giving the voting record of members of Congress for 1948-1963. It showed that Johnson had voted what COPE tabulated as "right" on labor issues only 45.9 per cent of the time.

Also in early 1960 the Americans for Democratic Action put out their ratings on selected liberal issues. It showed Johnson, then a Senator, had voted the "liberal position" 54 per cent of the time in 1957, 67 per cent in 1958 and 58 per cent in 1959.

Because of this past record Johnson obviously can be only a part-time political hero to organized labor in Presidential 1964, regardless of the fulsome support expressed by Reuther and others.

Yet for Johnson, it could be most important that union labor work strongly in his behalf 10 INDUSTRIAL STATES.

POSE A PROBLEM If there is a dragging of heels he could lose, in event of a closely-contested election, such industrial states as Connecticut, Illinois, Michigan, New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania, which Kennedy carried in 1960.

And AFL-CIO organized support on an enthusiastic scale is considered essential if Johnson — on a running-scared basis — is to carry other highly industrialized states which Nixon won in 1960. These are California, Indiana, Ohio and Wisconsin.

These 10 states in both categories have between them a significant bloc of 235 electoral votes, only 35 shy of a majority of the 538 electoral votes in the nation.

Thus the problem being posed before Johnson is whether he should later move more strongly toward labor, and risk alienating his business support, or seek other means of placating union organizations.

The other means could be a gesture allowing Reuther, AFL-CIO President George Meany and others in the labor hierarchy to have a say about his running mate.

Definitely, either Sen. Hubert Humphrey (Minn.) or Attorney General Kennedy would be labor's choice. And that is just the way the decision may be made, unless Johnson is convinced he is a shoo-in.

Palmer Lake Historical Society had to postpone its meeting set for March 19, because of the bad weather. The next meeting will be held Thursday, April 18. Mrs. McIlrath will give the program which had been planned for March. The Society is pleased to announce that a number of items have been donated to the museum. Mrs. Marjorie McDonald donated an old fireplace bellows found in the Williamson house in Glen Park, two old Chautauque books and a 1926 High School Year Book. A very old book on Colorado was donated by Mrs. Grace Dickson.

Books donated to the Palmer Lake Library recently are from the libraries of Mrs. Arnold Johnson, David Higby, Miss Evelyn Hendricks, Gilbert Campbell and Mrs. Maud Redmon. A typewriter and typewriter table have been given to the library by Mrs. Charlean Rice, of Pine Crest. Kenneth McCall has given the Society a show case for the Museum.

The Norman Foyes attended the Jackson-Jefferson annual Democratic fund raising dinner at the Hotel Hilton in Denver on Saturday.

The PTA is sponsoring a rummage sale to be held in the near future. Serviceable clothing is needed. Those wishing to have articles picked up for the sale may call Mrs. Berry Collier, 481-2568, for Monument and for Palmer Lake, Mrs. Charlean Rice, 481-2568.

Mrs. John Meekes returned the first of the week from visiting in Viena, Va. She and her daughters Linda and Marjorie plan to spend the Easter weekend in Las Animas.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Clausen returned recently from a month's vacation.

The Palmer Lake Home Demonstration Club workshop was held at the Town Hall on Tuesday last. Ten members were present to work on articles for the annual summer bazaar.

A number of Republican women from the area will attend the Republican Round Table which is to meet March 30 at the Northern National Bank, 220 E. Fillmore St., in Colorado Springs.

The Monument-Palmer Lake Kiwanis Club is sponsoring the annual Easter Sunrise Service at 7 a.m. at the Little Log Church in Palmer Lake, March 29th. A pancake breakfast will be served until time for regular church services.

Dr. and Mrs. M. Scott Carpenter are planning to spend Easter in Denver, where they will attend a wedding.

Steven Lavalet is in serious condition at Memorial Hospital, following a fall from a ladder in the gym of the Palmer Lake Elementary School Wednesday.

The Palmer Lake Home Demonstration Club's regular meeting will be held Thursday, April 2, at noon in the Town Hall. Mrs. Charlean Rice will give a book review following the luncheon and business session. Hostesses are Mrs. Mary Laming, Mrs. Tom Hafer, Mrs. Arthur Bradley and Nausha Derram Jones.

City Warns Hotel on Code Requirements

Several notices have been sent in recent weeks to officials of the Antlers Hotel that certain aspects of the existing hotel do not meet code requirements of the city.

Among some of the major changes required would be fire escapes along the west side of the building and revision of stairways connecting interior hallways.

"Nothing has been documented at this point that the hotel will be torn down," Perry C. Tyree, city superintendent of inspections said, "and conformance to the code of some positive information concerning removal of the building will have to be demonstrated to this office."

Notices of the changes at the hotel were sent out well in advance of recent rumors that the hotel will be torn down this fall.

Tyree has told officials of the Antlers that "we feel that conformance by your hotel will pay the way to compliance by H-occupancies."

Way back last fall Tyree issued public notices that the grace period for bringing non-conforming existing hotels apartment houses, dormitories and lodging houses into conformance ended last March, a year ago.

He reminded them that these structures must be made to conform with requirements for exits, stair construction and fire escapes, or the non-conforming portions must be vacated until they do comply. His department is mainly concerned with third floor or higher sleeping quarters.

TOP PEACETIME UNIT AWARD — Lt. Gen. Herbert B. Thatcher, ADC, commander, presents the Air Force's highest peacetime unit decoration — the Outstanding Unit Award — to the 9th Aerospace Control Sq. by attaching a streamer to the squadron guidon in the hands of CMSgt. Harold E. Barton. The award was made for the squadron's achievements in detection, tracking and cataloging of all man-made space objects from July 1, 1962 through June 30, 1963. The formal military ceremony honoring the squadron took place in front of the ADC Headquarters at the Chadlaw building.

Four Defendants Plead Guilty Here Friday

Four defendants pleaded guilty in District Court Friday.

The first was Alfred Juvera, 18, 830 S. Wabash Ave. charged with burglary. He is accused of breaking into the Collier Lumber Co. 221 Chestnut St. Feb. 26.

A co-defendant, Alfred Trinidad Malacara, 19, 234 S. Conchos St., is also charged with the burglary of the lumber company and pleaded guilty.

Both defendants had April 17 set for pre-trial investigation. Robert Lee Moore also known as Bobbie Plummer, pleaded guilty to burglary. The presiding judge David W. Enoch continued the matter to April 17 for pre-sentence investigation.

Moore, 22, 48 Minnehaha Rd. entered the Silver Day Phillips 66 Service Station, 1700 S. 8th St. March 5 with the intent to commit larceny.

Margaret Chase also known as Ida Louise Chase and Margaret Louise Chase charged with innocent plea and pleaded guilty to larceny.

Mrs. Chase, 38, of Denver, forged a $90 check May 27 of last year with intent to defraud Sally's Shoes. It was signed "Margaret D. Horne."

Tuesday's trial date was vacated and at the request of counsel Jack Agee, May 8 was set for pre-sentence investigation.

Honorary pallbearers include Charles Young, Harry Johnson, Hoyle Short, Thomas Roberts, Warren J. Anderson and Nick Sanborn, Sr.

Entering Car Case Set for Trial

Gary Lee Parmenter, charged with entering a motor vehicle with intent to commit larceny, pleaded innocent in District Court Friday and is scheduled for trial June 2.

According to the information, Parmenter, 20, 2105 N. Weber St. entered a vehicle belonging to the military police and stole a microphone worth $30 March 15.

The judge was David W. Enoch.

AF Unit Award Presented to Squadron Friday

The 1st Aerospace Control Squadron received the Air Force Outstanding Unit Award Friday in formal ceremonies at the Chadlaw building. Presenting the award was Lt. Gen. Herbert B. Thatcher, Commander of the Air Defense Command.

This unit, which operates the USAF SPACETRACK Center, was cited for "exceptionally meritorious service" from July 1, 1962 to June 30, 1963. The citation reads in part:

"During this period the 1st Aerospace Control Squadron operated the vital SPACETRACK Center for the United States C. McShane's court Friday to answer a charge of careless driving and forfeited her $50 bond. The defendant was ticketed Tuesday on U. S. Highway 85-87 by State Patrolman Al Smith.

Reckless driving in a defective vehicle cost Albert P. Miles, 41, 3302 La Salle St. $30 and costs. Smith gave him the ticket on North Circle Drive March 19.

Manfred Heinz Schiefer, 33 Highland St. was charged with careless driving and fined $10 and costs. State Patrolman J. Mathis issued the summons Wednesday south of Cheyenne Road.

Isidore Wedgle, 47, Denver was ticketed on Colorado Highway 38 by State Patrolman Arnold C. Ferrero for failing to yield the right of way March 11 and was fined $15 and costs.

Allowing an unauthorized person to drive on St. Elmo Street Sunday cost James Allen Rasmussen, 21, 1414 S. Corona St. $6 and costs. Al Smith of the state patrol was the officer.

Smith ticketed Emil Harold Claassen, 21, 2501 Wheeler St. for careless driving on U. S. Highway 24 Feb. 25. A $15 fine and costs was imposed.

Police Officer C. W. Jones Jones gave a ticket to Anthony A. Gonzales, 17, 815 E. Cimarron St. for having no operator's license. The violation happened March 21 on Bijou Street and the defendant was fined $6 and costs.

Civil Service Exams Set for Springs Police

Written examinations to create a new civil service eligibility list for the Colorado Springs police department will be held at 7 p.m. April 22 in the main arena of the City Auditorium.

Subsequent physical and oral exams will follow, according to C. L. Heitman Jr., city personnel director and secretary to the civil service commission.

There is only one man on the current civil service list and he is to join the police department in the near future.

"Which means," Heitman said, "that a new list is essential."

Application blanks may be obtained at the city manager's or city personnel director's office on the top floor of City Hall.

Qualified candidates must be between the ages of 21 and 30 years of age, at least 5 feet 9 inches tall and weigh at least 140 pounds.

Candidates must also have completed at least two years in an accredited high school, but GED certificates will be accepted in lieu of high school credits.

Candidates must be able to furnish a copy of their birth certificate and a military discharge if any. Applicants will be photographed, fingerprinted and cleared by the Colorado Springs police department ID Bureau prior to time of examination. All successful candidates will be required to take a polygraph test before their name is placed on the eligibility list.

Five petitions, two final plats and one preliminary plat will come before the El Paso County Planning Commission at a public hearing April 8 at 2 p.m. in the auditorium of the County Office Building.

The petitions are as follows:

Petition of Cecile M. Koselink to change an R-2 Residence district to a C-2 Suburban Business district, an area located between East Platte Avenue and Boulder Street, and west of Sunset Road.

Petition of Kenneth and Shirley Williams to change an R-2 Residence district to a C-2 Suburban Business district, in an area located south of Wilamette Place and west of North Circle Drive.

Blakemore, McCarty to change an R-2 Residence district to a C-2 Suburban Business district, an area located on the southeast corner of the intersection of Bijou Street and Bonfoy Street.

Young Driver Found Not Guilty of Careless Drive

A 17-year-old girl who struck a parked car March 6 said Friday in Municipal Court that when she started sliding to the right, she tried to turn her car to the left.

"It didn't work," said Elizabeth Bergman, 342 E. Buena Ventura St. Her car struck the parked car, pushing it up over the curb.

When Judge Allan Asher pointed out that she should have turned the wheel in the direction of the skid, Elizabeth said she undoubtedly would have hit the parked car then.

Officer Werner Fenstrom, who cited the girl, said the street was treacherous that day and the car Elizabeth was driving was much heavier than the one she struck.

Elizabeth said she talked to the boy whose car she struck and he told her he hadn't intended to park, but had been drawn into the space on the icy street.

Judge Asher found Elizabeth not guilty of a careless driving charge.

Simmie Williams, 35, 523 S. El Paso St., pleaded guilty to reckless driving and was given a 30-day jail sentence. A 10-day jail sentence was imposed on

S. Niel Willett Died of Heart Attack

S. Niel Willett, widely known Colorado educator and a former Colorado Springs resident, died of a heart attack Saturday at his home, 8055 W. 25th Place, Lakewood, Colo. Funeral services were held at 11 a.m. Thursday at the Capitol Mortuary, Chapel of the Angeles, Lakewood.

He was born August 22, 1911, in Colorado Springs, where he attended school. He was graduated from Colorado College in 1938 and received his master's degree from that institution in 1944.

Mr. Willett married Miss Ruth Elizabeth Richert Dec. 2, 1939, in Colorado Springs. The couple moved to Jefferson County in 1947, where Mr. Willett was then employed as superintendent of Mountain schools. He taught at Fountain, Del Norte and Wray before going to Mountain. He also coached football and track at Wray High School. He later became principal at Jefferson High School. For the past three and one half years he had taught at Alameda High School.

Mr. Willett was a member of the Lakewood Rotary Club, Phi Delta Theta Fraternity, the Colorado Congress of Parents and Teachers, the Colorado Education Assn., the National Education Assn. and the Lakewood Methodist Church.

Surviving, in addition to his wife, are his mother, Mrs. Bell Willett, of Colorado Springs; a daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Bell Hoffman, of Lakewood; a sister, Mrs. Frances Willett Hewins, of Leonardtown, Me.; a brother Joe Sinton Willett, of Colorado Springs, and a grandson Fredrich Niel Hoffman, Lakewood.

Wrongful Death Suit Filed in District Court

A $52,500 wrongful death suit was filed in District Court Friday by Everett W. Kellogg, administrator for the estate of the late Jeanette E. Henry against Herschel Ellis Farr.

It is alleged that on Sept. 19, 1963 at the intersection of Hancock Avenue and Cache la Poudre Street, Farr drove his car into another vehicle in which Mrs. Henry was a passenger.

According to the complaint she suffered multiple rib injuries and a broken shoulder and as a result of these injuries died Oct. 21, 1963.

A second suit was also filed by the Associated Press against Hill-Smith Broadcasting Inc. for $14,575.62. Associated Press is claiming breach of contract.

Hill-Smith is the owner of broadcasting station KSSS and according to the complaint entered into a 2-year contract with the wire service Nov. 23, 1962.

It is alleged that effective Dec. 30, 1962 the service would furnish news reports for broadcast over KSSS at a cost of $52.90 per week.

It is further alleged that Hill-Smith allegedly broke the contract Jan. 8, 1964 by refusing to pay the weekly assessment.

Speeder Fined $10 in JP Court

Carl Peter Wasinger was fined $10 and costs by Justice of the Peace James F. Quine Friday for speeding. According to State Patrolman A. G. Murin, Wasinger, 31, 1915 Manor Lane, was driving at 69 miles per hour in a 60 zone on Colorado Highway 29 Friday.

Annie May Hall, 45, 7 Burns Rd. Manitou Springs, was charged with making an improper signal on South Tejon Street Wednesday and fined $5 and property was dismissed against state patrolman.

Careless driving on U.S. Highway 85-87 Friday cost Ralph Randall Jensen, 22, of the Sand Hotel $5 and costs. The ticketing officer was A. G. Murin of the state patrol.

In a companion case, Muriel Sigler, 43, 126 E. Las Animas St., was found not guilty of careless driving and Lyle Jensen, 23, 1220 N. Cooper St., was found guilty of the identical charge and fined $25. Jensen was defended by Paul Barber.

William Valdez, 42, 720 N. Walnut St., pleaded guilty to two charges of drunkenness and a charge of breach of peace lodged against him by Mary Lightfoot. Judge Asher levied fines totaling $75 against Valdez.

A car driven by Eva Elizabeth Craft, 18, 118 E. Dale St., going east on west Pikes Peak Avenue, struck and ran over the curb and knocked down a tree. The driver suffered abrasions to both knees and complained of severe pain in her lower arm and elbow, but refused medical aid at the scene, police reported.

Cpl. C. J. Cates, city police, ticketed Craft for careless driving.

Cub Scout Den 4 of the Jefferson School took the honors at a recent meeting of Pack 43 taking home the Cubby and Gold Arrow for having the most advancements in the pack.

Boys receiving awards at the meeting were:

Radio Opera
To Present
Special Show

Two excerpts from Richard Wagner's "Parsifal," and a complete performance of Giuseppe Verdi's "Requiem" will be broadcast starting at noon today on KKK.

The Wagner excerpts to be heard over the Texas-Metropolitan Texas Radio Network include the prelude and the "Good Friday" scene with bass Jerome Hines singing the role of Kundry, and tenor Jess Thomas that of Parsifal.

Verdi's "Requiem," which has never before been broadcast by the Metropolitan Opera, the singers will be soprano Leontyne Price, mezzo-soprano Rosalind Elias, tenor Carlo Bergonzi and bass Cesare Siepi with the Metropolitan Opera chorus and orchestra.

The noted conductor, Georg Solti, will be on the podium to direct both the Wagner and Verdi works.

During the intermission, Opera News on the Air, musicologist and lecturer Edward Downes will present an analysis of the music. Verdi wrote for his famous "Requiem."

Wagner began work on "Parsifal," which he called a "festival play," at Bayreuth in 1877 and completed it at Palermo, Italy in 1882. Its first performance took place at Bayreuth on July 26 of that year.

At the composer's strict order, the opera was not given anywhere else until 50 years after his death. Since then it has been performed in major opera houses throughout the world.

The "Parsifal" excerpts to be given during the March 28 broadcast include the prelude to Act I which offers the leading motives of the entire work—the theme of the Eucharist, the Grail motive (taken from the famous Dresden Amon), the motive of faith, and the motive representing the holy spear.

This is to be followed by the "Good Friday Spell" which comes in Act III. Parsifal has returned to Castle Montsalvat after a long world journey to find that Kundry, who had sinned, has repented. He baptizes her amid the grand orchestral coloring of Wagner's music.

Verdi completed his "Requiem" in 1874. It was written in memory of the poet Manzoni and has been a favorite with music lovers since its first performance at the San Marco Church in Milan.

The "Requiem" is in seven sections: Requiem, Dies Irae, Offertorium, Sanctus, Agnus Dei, Lux Aeterna, and Libera Me.

TODAY'S COVER

Good music comes from the heart, but it's the hands that produce the sound. As Photographer Brian Evans proves with the pictures on the cover of today's Leisuretime. The faces for the hands will be found with the Cover Story by Jim Owen on pages 14 and 15 of today's Leisuretime.

NEXT WEEK — What is this man doing? "Shirley" Waving to someone? Directing traffic? It's none of those, but what he is doing is a favorite leisure-time activity of thousands of people. Staff Writer Marguerite Mitchell explains exactly what the man is doing in the cover story in next week's.

Nothing to Say

Helen Palmer, appearing in Universal's "Wild and Wonderful," starring Tony Curtis and real-life wife, Christine Kaufmann, finally fulfilled her childhood wish of appearing in a movie. After working with dialogue coach Bob Perkins for over a year to overcome a lisp, she was cast in "Wild and Wonderful" as — of all things — a mute.

Allen to Host
Panel Show

Sam Allen has been named to host a new hour-long panel show, "What's My Line?" with the star of the new season of "Saturday Night Live."

Allen, one of the most gifted comedians in show business, will take over the host duties as the regular panel program starts its 10th season on the CBS "Leisuretime" Network.

This will be the feature of a new evening for Allen. In the early 1960s he starred in several CBS Radio Network programs and was a regular panel member on the "What's My Line?" television series and was host of "Songs for Sale." He then starred for several seasons in the NBC-TV "Tonight" series and in his own Sunday-night variety series. For the past two years he has starred in a nightly comedy program syndicated by the Westinghouse Broadcasting Company, Inc., and seen in 4 cities. He will continue this series.

GEORGE GARRIGUES

'Student Prince' to Close Opera Association Season

The Colorado Springs Opera Association will present "The Student Prince" April 9, 10, and 11 at the Fine Arts Center as its third and final production of the 1963-64 season.

The light opera by Sigfrund Romberg will feature tenor George Garrigues as Prince Karl Franz and soprano Claire Dubois as Kathie.

The historic university town of Heidelberg, Germany, is the setting for a romance between a young prince-turned-student and a waitress at a German university inn. Such songs as "Drink, Drink, Drink" and "Deep in My Heart Dear" have made the operetta a great favorite with American audiences since it first opened on Broadway in 1924.

Romberg, who was Hungarian born, came to the United States in 1909 at the age of 22. After his success with the Student Prince and other operettas he went to Hollywood to write film scores. He died in 1951 after having composed 78 operettas and 2,000 songs. Among his most popular songs are "Stout Hearted Men," "Sweetheart," "Lover Come Back to Me," and "Desert Song."

Musical director for the Opera Association production is J. Julius Baird, Colorado Springs organist, composer and conductor. Edalyn Burger, founder of the Theatre Singers, which was the forerunner of the local Opera Association, is staging director. This team directed the first two productions of the season, Verdi's "La Traviata" in November and "Down in the Valley" by Weill and Moore's "The Devil and Daniel Webster" in February.

The two have directed all productions of the Opera Association since it was founded in 1959.

Baird, the only Colorado Springs musician listed in "Who's Who in America," is musical director and organist for the Episcopal Churches and also is a music teacher at Colorado College.

Mrs. Burger, in addition to her work with the Opera Association, is an instructor of opera workshop and voice at the Loretta Heights College in Denver.

Leading roles in the production will be played by James Clamp as Dr. Engel, Florence Bryant as Gretchen, Glenn Askew as Von Asterberg, Jerry Strickland as Lucas, Crawford Scott as Lutz, Rolf Zinger as Ruder, Clifford Kolsrud as Von Mark, the prime minister, Lillian McCue as Grand Duchess Anastasia, and Jacqueline Pettigrew as Princess Margaret.

Tickets may be purchased for $3 each at the Colorado Springs Opera Association Box office, 519 N. Tejon St. Reservations may also be made by phone or mail.

Other members of the cast are:

Eric Finstrom as Captain Tarnitz, Shirley Dearing, Countess Leydon, Burl McKinney, Baron Arnheim, A. Wayne Field, Toni, David Wagner, Nicolas, John Schmidt, Rudolph Winter, Robert Gates, Freshman, Joseph Thompson, Captain of the Guard, Dean Moon, First Lackey, Vayle Rohan, Second Lackey, Theron Bergman, Third Lackey, and Edward Spencer, Fourth Lackey.

Chester Gets Own Series

"Kentucky," starring Dennis Weaver in a new half-hour comedy series with a background of thoroughbred racing, will be presented in the 1964-65 season on the NBC-TV Network Saturdays. The series is tentatively set to debut Sept. 12.

In his first regular starring role in a series, Weaver will portray Kentucky Jones, a veterinarian and former horse trainer, who reluctantly takes into his home and heart a nine-year-old Chinese orphan, Ricky Der, who launched his acting career in the film, "Tarzan's Three Challenges," will make his TV debut as Dwight Eisenhower (Ike) Wong, the orphan striving to win the affection of his foster father.

Set against the hoof-pounding tempo of America's most popular professional sport (thoroughbred racing has more paid admissions than baseball), "Kentucky" will offer a TV comedy series in the tradition of such film classics as "The Kid" and "The Champ." Kentucky Jones, owner of a 40-acre California horse ranch, is a footloose dreamer who wants none of the responsibility entailed in the raising of Ike for whom his wife had sent before her sudden death. Since he has had to take care of himself for most of his young life, Ike is practical and hard-headed. The orphan and his reluctant "father" develop their relationship thru succeeding episodes, ranging behind the scenes at Santa Anita and other leading California tracks.

Ham on the Rocks Makes For Delightful Cookout

Springtime in the Rockies is the surest presage of cook-out time, whether it's in your own back yard or high up in the Pike Forest picnic areas.

Winter doldrums exit as Spring makes her entrance and families begin to think of packing up a basket of goodies and heading for the high country.

Supplies for a mountain cook-out need not be elaborate. To my mind, there's still nothing quite so good as a hotdog roasted over gray-hot coals. The lowly frank can achieve princely heights with the addition of chili and sauerkraut.

Canned chili and sauerkraut can be easily heated in disposable aluminumware and the helpmate doesn't have to concern herself with toting home a clutch of soiled pots and pans.

Area Girl Scouts have perfected a simple but satisfying method for preparing a delicious delicacy that should appeal to the youngsters.

They call this specialty "Pi-Chi-Ham." It's a combination of pineapple rings, boiled ham slices and squares of American or nippy Cheddar cheese, or if you prefer Swiss.

The girls start with a roar-around for nice rounded stones. The stones are rinsed off in cold mountain streams and are then placed into the fire to heat thoroughly.

A little dexterity with two sturdy sticks is needed to maneuver the stone to the fire's edge where the do-it-yourself operation begins.

The ham slice is placed on the hot rock until it begins to curl at the edge. The cheese slice goes over the ham to melt slowly as the pineapple ring cooks beside the ham.

While this is in progress, the young chef can neat a hamburger bun impaled on a stick over the campfire.

The Pi-Chi-Ham is then sandwiched between the bun (which is split and buttered at home) and all's done to the diner's desire.

A good accompaniment is golden sweet corn roasted in the fire with no fuss or bother as preparations can be made at home. Simply butter the cleaned corn, sprinkle with salt and wrap in several layers of foil.

Place the corn in the coals and cook for about 10 minutes. Two small twigs piercing each end of the cornob makes it easy to handle.

To top off this menu, serve canned tomato juice, which earlier has been placed in the stream to chill.

The ingredients for this cook-out supply the different textures, tastes and colors so necessary to please the palate.

Too, eye appeal just naturally means aye appeal.

Kenny Ancel To Sing Here

Kenny Ancel, whose latest record is "Twelve Feet High," will sing here in April at Carpenter's Hall.

Ancel was born Nov. 28, 1945, in Colorado Springs. He had his own band at age 16 when he started his singing career. While performing at a local teen-age hop, the youngster was discovered by recording artist Johnny Angel, now his manager.

Ancel took the youth to Hollywood where he cut his first record "Teenage Honeymoon." Ancel's latest record will be available next week in local stores. It's on the Parliament label.

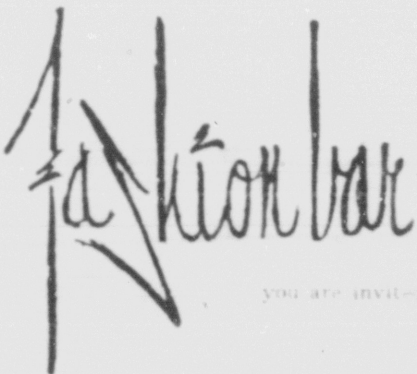

Ancel will perform from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. April 26.

Presley Film At Aircadia

Opening Wednesday at the Aircadia Drive-in Theatre is the new Elvis Presley musical "Fun in Acapulco." The film is set in the beautiful city of Acapulco where the beaches are snow-white, the hotels are plush, the fun is plentiful and the girls are Wow!

Co-starring with Elvis in the Hal Wallis production and Paramount release is an international cast headed by Ursula Andress of Switzerland, Elsa Cardenas of Mexico, Paul Lukas of Hungary, Alejandro Rey of Argentina and Larry Doman of Los Angeles, U.S.A.

Elvis portrays a circus performer who goes to Acapulco in order to forget the fatal accident his brother had on the trapeze—an accident he feels was his fault. Once in Acapulco he hires on at a fancy hotel as a part-time entertainer and beach boy. This arrangement furnishes ample time for romance and an opportunity to sing many new songs.

The fast moving action was directed by Richard Thorpe who has brought nearly two-hundred films to the screen including Elvis' "Jailhouse Rock."

"A New Kind of Love," the Paramount farce comedy in Technicolor starring the husband-wife team of Paul Newman and Joanne Woodward is on the same bill.

A riotous takeoff on the high fashion industry in New York and Paris, "A New Kind of Love" also features Thelma Ritter, Eva Gabor, George Tobias, Marvin Kaplan and Robert Clary.

Tiger Walks At Chief

Walt Disney's feature motion picture, "A Tiger Walks," at the Chief Theatre, is a suspense story involving an escaped tiger. Every conceivable obstacle is placed in the path of Brian Keith, a sheriff with a conscience.

First of all, a dense fog drops down to cover the area, making it impossible to track the big cat. Then the sheriff's 13-year-old daughter makes a nationwide plea to "Save That Tiger" on network TV. An ambitious Governor who sees the situation as an opportunity to capture headlines and calls out the National Guard. A trigger happy soldier adds his two cents worth by wounding a farmer. Then, to top it off, hundreds of kids bearing "Save That Tiger" placards begin to swing the opinions of a nation.

Filed in Technicolor, "A Tiger Walks" stars Brian Keith, Vera Miles and Pamela Franklin.

Ute Gets Screen Drama

David Susskind's screen production of "All The Way Home" opens Thursday at the Ute Theatre. Based on the Pulitzer Prize winning novel by the late James Agee, "A Death In The Family" and Tad Mosels's stage adaptation which also won a Pulitzer Prize.

The screen production of "All The Way Home" is as faithful to the play — as the play was to Agee's book.

"All The Way Home" is the bitter-sweet story of a few crucial days in the lives of a young couple and their little son in the Knoxville, Tennessee of 1915. It is a study in depth of an American family of another era — of their pleasures and problems, their dreams and disappointments, and of the personal tragedy that shatters and changes their world. Susskind and director Alex Segal have recreated in this distinguished film that poignant blend of realism and poetry which characterized the original Agee work.

Starring in the film are Robert Preston and Jean Simmons — two fine performers who have won critical acclaim for their work in a wide variety of roles.

Two Films At Vista Vue

It took Ann-Margret exactly three minutes to reach the stars.

The vivacious, talented screen newcomer appears Wednesday at the Vista Vue Drive-in Theatre in the Kohlmar-Sidney production of "Bye Bye Birdie," new Columbia Pictures release also starring Janet Leigh, Dick Van Dyke, Maureen Stapleton, Bobby Rydell with Jesse Pearson as Birdie and TV's Ed Sullivan.

Ann-Margret won her stardom in the spring of 1962, at the Academy Award TV show. Ann-Margret's job was to sing one of the Oscar-nominated songs, "Bachelor in Paradise." Her lively rendition of the song on the Oscar show made her the talk of filmdom. Producer Fred Kohlmar and director George Sidney, seeking a "typical" teen-age girl, knew at the end of those three minutes that they had found their star.

Leslie Parrish is teamed with Kirk Douglas, Mitzi Gaynor and Gig Young in Universal's "For Love Or Money," the second show on the Vista Vue bill.

Actor's First Comedy Try

Reginald Owen, at the age of 75, is paying homage to his 61st year as an actor by appearing in his first slapstick comedy role in Universal's color production, "The Thrill of It All," now playing at the Broadmoor Theatre.

"I never knew slapstick could be so much fun," Owen told co-stars Doris Day, James Garner and Ariane Francis. "In the old days when Hollywood's comics were hanging from cliffs and tipping over freight trains, I was all tied up in love-dripping melodramas such as 'A Woman Commands,' 'The Letter' and 'A Study in Scarlet.' While the pies were flying, I was embracing Jeanne Eagles."

In the "The Thrill of It All," Reginald is seen as the crochety tycoon of a soap company who insists on hiring housewife Doris Day to do TV commercials for his soap at $80,000 a year.

'Limpet' At Peak

"The Incredible Mr. Limpet," now showing at the Peak Theatre with performances at 1:22, 3:22, 5:22, 7:22 and 9:22 p.m. daily, stars Knotts along with carole Cook, Jack Weston, Andrew Duggan and Larry Keating. The comedy-with-music in Technicolor was produced by John C. Rose.

The pince nez eyeglasses worn by Don Knotts in "The Incredible Mr. Limpet" not only help to build up his characterization but also have an important bearing on the development of the plot.

Hence, director Arthur Lubin demanded the pince nez be authentic and not just something whipped up by the Warner Bros. prop department. Lubin's requirements for Knotts were met. The comedian was fitted out with the pince nez worn by Paul Muni in 1935 for "The Story of Louis Pasteur."

TV Telephone

Telephone operators at a Chicago company can tell at a glance if a salesman is at his desk and can take a call, reports "Factory." A series of television monitors have been installed above a switchboard, with the cameras aimed at salesmen's desks. The company feels the TV device cuts down on the number of transferred calls for salesmen who are not at their desks.

'Jones' Starts Wednesday

All the good humor and lusty fun which have made Henry Fielding's celebrated novel of life, liberty and the pursuit of ladies in Somerset, England in the mellow 18th Century an enduring favorite, come to the screen in the United Artists-Lopert Eastmancolor release "Tom Jones," which opens Wednesday at the Peak Theatre with performances daily at 1:24, 3:59, 6:34, and 9:09 p.m.

Hailed by critic after critic as one of the finest pictures ever produced anywhere, and a sure candidate for high screen honors come Award time, the comedy stars England's Albert Finney as Tom, and supports him with such impressive players as Susannah York, Hugh Griffith, Edith Evans, Joan Greenwood, Diane Cilento, George Devine and David Tomlinson.

"Tom Jones" was produced and directed by Tony Richardson with special music by John Addison.

Because it so largely retains its 18th Century flavor despite the encroachments of "Modernity," the green meadow country of Dorsetshire in southwestern England was selected as the "location" for the filming of "Tom Jones."

Since the Tom of Fielding's story was constantly being pursued by the ladies, a situation he did nothing to discourage, as attractive a cast of feminine stars as has ever been assembled to appear in a picture were gathered for "Tom Jones."

Chief Shows 'Beach Party'

We've heard that it's been tried, but we are convinced you can't have a party without girls, girls, girls—the more, the merrier! You will see them all and much more in "Muscle Beach Party" in color and Panavision, starring Annette Funicello, Frankie Avalon, Jody McCrea, Morey Amsterdam and Buddy Hackett, starting Wednesday at the Chief Theatre.

They come in all sizes and attitudes. There are the standers and the sitters; the tall and the short; the blonde and the brunette; the sweet and the sophisticated, and, from what we've seen, the one thing all seem to have in common is a certain lumpiness.

Copra is the dried meat of the coconut, used in the manufacture of soap and other articles.

Twin Bill At Aircadia

Edith Head, the renowned Hollywood clothes designer, has created a stunningly beautiful wardrobe for Jerry Lewis, Technicolor film, "Who's Minding the Store?" now showing at the Aircadia Drive-in Theatre. The leading ladies in this comedy are dressed and redressed so many times that it makes "Who's Minding the Store?" the most elaborately costumed film Jerry Lewis has ever made.

As Jerry's leading lady, co-star Jill St. John wears fourteen outfits ranging from an enchanting bridal gown to a uniform for a well-dressed elevator operator. As Jill's wealthy mother Agnes Moorehead has eleven costumes... all high fashion. The second attraction at the Aircadia is "The Lion."

William Holden is a man who is attracted to danger and who will try anything once. His co-stars in this Cinema-Scope-De-Luxe Color Samuel G. Engel drama, filmed on location in Africa are Trevor Howard, Capucine and 22-year-old actress Pamela Franklin.

Holden's activities have run the gamut of flying planes, driving fast cars and boats, hunting dangerous game in Africa, lion taming while filming his current attraction, bronco-busting, bull-dogging steers and soldiering. His next "hobby" will be parachute jumping.

'Sizzles' at Cooper Fri.

More than 15,000 seashells of varying shapes and colors were incorporated in the exotic Roman-style bathtub in which Audrey Hepburn takes a bubble bath in the new Paramount release "Paris When It Sizzles," which opens Friday at the Cooper Theatre.

Shells from Normandy, the coast of Brittany and even the Cote d'Azur were brought to the Studios de Boulogne just outside Paris, to fill the specifications for the salle de bain sequence of the new comedy, in which Miss Hepburn plays dual roles—the part of a temporary secretary who is sent to assist a Hollywood writer (William Holden) living in a Paris penthouse; and the elfin Parisienne who comes to life on a portable typewriter when the pair sit down to collaborate on a story. Although no official value has been placed on the novel bathtub, the studio art director estimates that it might easily bring a bid of $10,000.

'Newman' Is Held Over

An all-star cast headed by Gregory Peck, Tony Curtis, Angie Dickinson and Bobby Darin, has been assembled for Universal's comedy-drama hit "Captain Newman," now being held for a second week at the Cooper theatre.

Gregory Peck, in his first assignment since winning the coveted Oscar for "To Kill a Mockingbird," portrays Captain Newman, brilliant chief of the neuropsychiatric section of an Army Base. Tony Curtis stars as Corporal Jackson Latbowitz, Peck's chief orderly; and lovely Angie Dickinson, plays the feminine lead as the nurse Bobby Darin is co-starred in a non-singing role.

Photographed in color, the Universal film features such talents as Eddie Albert, James Gregory, Bethel Leslie, Robert Duvall, Dick Sargent, Jane Withers and Larry Storch.

'Mockingbird' At Center

"To Kill a Mockingbird," the moving story of one man's fight against injustice and prejudice, will be shown at the Fine Arts Center Tuesday at 2:30, 6:30 and 9:15 p.m.

The movie stars Gregory Peck in his Academy Award winning role as Atticus Finch, the Alabama lawyer and widower who defies his small town in order to teach his two children the values of truth and justice.

If you own an outboard motor sufficiently portable to carry in the trunk of your car, it will pay to take it along on vacation. According to figures from the Mercury outboard people, you'll have to pay $5 to $15 per day for the privilege of renting a fishing motor — when you can find one. Boats, on the other hand, are plentiful and normally rent for $2 to $5 per day.

Enlightening Tip

Trying to erect a tent after dark is an irritating business which the veteran camper avoids like poison ivy, say the Mercury boating authorities. But it happens to the best woodsman once in awhile. If you find yourself in the predicament of setting up camp after nightfall, don't fumble around doing the job by lantern light. Use your car's headlights to illuminate the area.

They Were the Mighty Colorados And They Live in Naval History

By JOE GOODE
CHIEF JOURNALIST
Staff Naval Forces CONAD

This is the story of three ships — a steam frigate, a cruiser, and a battleship. Each of these ships sailed the high seas in different eras — the War Between the States, the first great war, and World War II. Written into their logs are events in history that contributed towards the building of the greatest sea power the world has known — the United States Navy.

Although these ships were of different size and tonnage they all had something in common — their names, USS COLORADO.

The first USS Colorado was a three-masted steam screw frigate, named for the twisting Colorado river and launched at the Gosport (Norfolk) Navy Yard on June 19, 1856. The 3,400-ton Colorado was Commodore William Marvine's flagship during the Mexican Gulf blockade of 1861. Her 40 guns and her speed became a Federal asset in starving out the insurgent Confederates from Key West to the Rio Grande.

In September 1861 while the Colorado steamed outside the surrendered Federal Naval Base of Pensacola, the Confederate schooner Judah was fitting out in the harbor. The Commodore decided to destroy her. One hundred sailors went over the side of the Colorado into her small boats and headed towards the Judah. In the face of heavy gunfire the Colorado crewmen were able to board the southern ship. After a bloody hand-to-hand battle the Judah was destroyed under the eyes of the Confederates.

Later in the war, the Colorado became the flagship of the North Atlantic Blockading Squadron and figured prominently in the assault and seizure of Ft. Fisher in North Carolina.

Now a Civil War veteran, the Colorado cruised the Asiatic Station during post-war years. In the mid-nineteenth century Korea was the scene of a great many unfriendly receptions to castaway mariners and visitors. Among the acts of barbaric natives was the torture and massacre of an American sailing ship crew in 1866.

A squadron of five ships, with Rear Admiral John Rodgers aboard the Colorado, was detached from the Asiatic Squadron with orders to woo the Koreans.

After negotiations bogged down, the Americans resorted to the "big stick" with Colorado sailors constituting the majority in the landing force which stormed the principal Korean fort on the Han River. Just as today's Marines, the ship's sailors stormed ashore, fought their way to the fort, climbed the parapets, and engaged in hand-to-hand fighting with the die-hard natives. After a bitter battle, the fort was won and later named Ft. McKee in honor of a Colorado lieutenant. After this battle and the strong action of the American landing force, the Koreans adopted a friendly policy towards foreigners.

The Colorado acted as a Receiving Ship at the New York Navy Yard in the years 1873-84. On Feb. 14, 1885, 31 years after the laying of her keel, Colorado No. 1 was sold to private interests broken up and burned for her copper fastenings and other salvage material.

In April, 1903, the $3.75 million, 13,680-ton armored cruiser, Colorado, was launched from Cramp's Philadelphia shipyard. Cruiser Colorado joined Rear Admiral Willard H. Brownson's Armored Cruiser Squadron on her commissioning two years later. As World War I loomed the Colorado became involved with matters of protocol, receiving ambassadors, participating in centennials, and extending goodwill to a world that was soon to forget what it meant.

In 1915 the Colorado became the flagship of the Pacific Reserve Fleet. In 1916 her name was changed to the Pueblo, so that a larger ship could bear the name of the western state.

As the USS Pueblo, she shepherded troop-laden transports to France in 1917. She brought back over 10,000 troops herself in 1918. Cruiser Pueblo became the Receiving Ship at New York City in 1921, remaining inactive until 1930. Then as was the first Colorado's fate, she was stricken from the Navy list and sold.

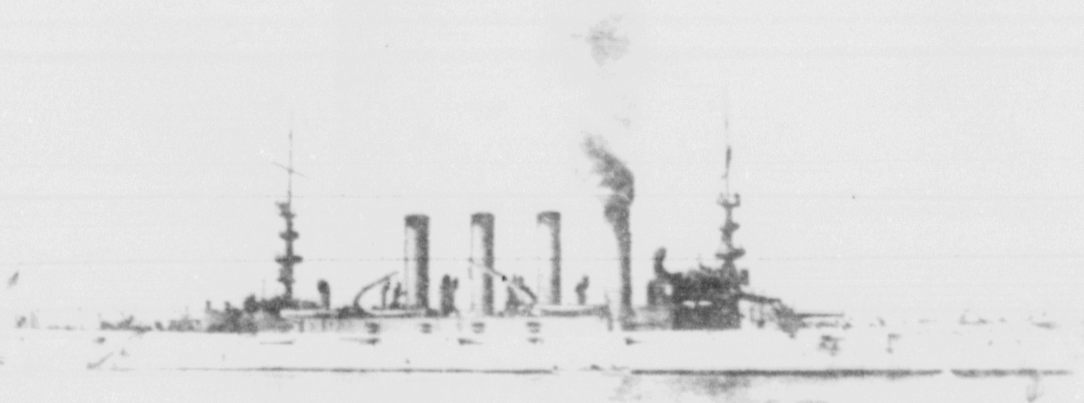

On the list of uncompleted ships to be scrapped submitted to the Washington Conference on Limitation of Armament (Nov. 12, 1921) were two Maryland Class super dreadnaughts, West Virginia and Colorado. Since Japan would not scrap certain warships, Great Britain was authorized to complete two post-Jutland ships, and the U.S. Navy was permitted to outfit and commission its two battlewagons.

The mammoth battleship Colorado was built by the New York Shipbuilding Company at Camden, N.J. Her keel was laid on May 19, 1919, and almost two years were required to complete her construction.

Tuesday, March 22, 1921, was the day of launching. Mrs. Max Melville of Denver, daughter of Colorado's Sen. S. D. Nicholson, christened the ship. A bottle filled with Colorado River water was broken over the bow and the $27 million battleship slid down the ways. It was the third time in U.S. Naval history that Colorado had been honored.

Two years of fitting out elapsed before the Colorado (BB-45) was commissioned into the Navy. The United States, cognizant of the world's eagerness to get a look at this new Goliath of the seas, decided that the Colorado's maiden voyage should be made to European water. Leaving New York immediately after Christmas of 1923, the battleship made a 10-day voyage to England.

The Colorado looked precisely what she was built for — the maximum of fighting power in a hull of great measurement and tonnage. The 624-foot long hull held or supported seven major decks. An innovation appeared in the new type watertight hatches, a single action hatch on which all the fastening dogs could be wedged into place by means of a hand-operated wheel.

WORLD WAR I — The cruiser Colorado, as transport for American troops in the first and second World Wars.

Rising starkly from the deck in 2 A-1 arrangements (two turrets forward and two aft) were four massive steel turrets, each housing a giant pair of 16-inch, 105-ton rifles. These weapons and their crews were protected by 18 inches of steel — the thickest armor carried by any warship then in existence. These guns were able to fire accurately at a rate of two full salvos every 90 seconds at an enemy target 19 miles away.

Other armament consisted of twelve 5-inch rapid fire guns and 81 antiaircraft guns. She also carried three aircraft on the fantail.

The Colorado was often referred to as the "electric ship". To make her 21 knots, she used four 8,000-horsepower motors which drove her propellers. All auxiliary machinery relied on electricity for operation from raising the anchors, maneuvering the turrets, elevating and loading the guns to laundering, baking the ship's bread, and running the potato peelers.

In the opinion of naval experts at that time, the Colorado's intricate subdivision plan plus her liberal coat of armor plating plus her elaborate pumping system rendered the ship all but unsinkable.

Seven years after her commissioning the Colorado was operating with the Pacific Fleet. On June 3, 1930, the Colorado was heading for Colon in the Panama Canal Zone under full steam. Her destination was near at hand. Suddenly and without warning flames broke out in the plotting room — brain center of the ship's control of her 16-inch guns. Deadly chlorine fumes combined with thick smoke to form a lethal cloud in the center of the below deck spaces. After eight hours of fire fighting and flooding of compartments the fire was brought under control. Over $200,000 in repairs was made on the Colorado.

In July 1937, the Colorado during a training cruise, became involved in the sea hunt for the famed aviatrix, Amelia Earhart, and her co-pilot Capt. Fred Noonan. Day and night for almost a week the Colorado probed vainly in dangerously shallow waters near reefs and sand banks looking for the downed pilots.

On the Sunday of the Pearl Harbor attack the battleship Colorado was in the Bremerton, Wash., Naval Shipyard. One-third of the U.S. Fleet was out of action. There remained but a thin bulwark of floating protection between the West Coast and the amphibious legions of the Japanese — the Colorado was one of the few capital ships ready to fight.

Throughout the summer and fall of 1942, the Colorado remained on the West Coast conducting final battle exercises. On August 1, 1942, she sailed for Pearl Harbor.

Finally in November, 1942, the Colorado made her debut against the enemy. Her 16-inch guns fired ton after ton of steel onto the strong Tarawa defenses. For nine days in support of the Marines, the Colorado slugged it out with unseen stationary batteries at close range until finally with her accurate fire power she destroyed the enemy.

After 17 months of continuous Pacific cruising, the Colorado returned to the U.S. in December, 1943. Before her crew could digest their Christmas dinner Colorado was at sea again. This time she headed deep into the Pacific combat zone and was in the attack on the Kwajalein Atoll, and within a few weeks attacked Eniwetok. Just as she did on Kwajalein her big guns raked the Eniwetok beaches, softening the enemy for the fighting U.S. Leathernecks.

The Colorado returned in March of 44 for crews' rest and repairs. The following month she steamed out of port and was headed west ready to meet the Japanese forces head-on. In a task force, the Colorado closed in on Saipan on June 14th. Her heavy guns hammered away at the beaches. She was fighting at close range and ran the risk of having her guns knocked out in the exchange of gunfire. Throughout June and July the Colorado delivered fire on Saipan targets.

In late July the Colorado nosed alongside Tinian to pound shore installations. Her first battle damage came as a result of fire from the Tinian batteries — 22 shells ripped into the Colorado. Although badly damaged, she continued the attack on the island. Finally the Marines landed the island was won and the Colorado limped away with victory flags flying.

She returned to the United States in August for repairs and leaves for the crew. In November, the Colorado was back on the fighting front. This time it was the battle for the Philippines. In the Leyte Gulf the Colorado was struck by a suicide aircraft causing heavy casualties and moderate damage.

The next month the Colorado moved to the China Sea side of the Philippines for the invasion of Mindoro. For six days the guns of the battleship roared, sweeping the beaches and island with tell tale fire power. The final action of consequence in the Philippines was the invasion of Lingayen Gulf. This time the Colorado was met by heavy resistance. In dishing it out, the Colorado took some hits. One Japanese shell was able to rock the battleship as it tore into her superstructure causing severe casualties among those on the navigation bridge.

rado began firing the first of two million pounds of high explosives into the Japanese strong-hold on Okinawa. On D-Day, April 1, the Colorado's mission was to blast the sea wall, reduce railroad junctions to rubble and knock out as many guns as possible.

Just as the Colorado launched her observation aircraft, Japanese suicide planes came in — low over the water, dozens of them — and the anti-aircraft fire was like a thunderstorm. Shrapnel continuously clattered on the mighty ship's decks, wounding her crew. For 63 days and nights the Colorado endured the hell of Okinawa to deliver the support fire for the troops pushing waves.

On May 22 the Colorado withdrew from the Island and arrived in Leyte Gulf to await further orders. Two months later, the Colorado reentered American occupied Okinawa Buckner Bay in preparation for the next attack — the Japanese home island.

While there, the Japanese accepted the provisions of the Potsdam Ultimatum. On Aug. 27, the Colorado was among the first group of Allied warships to enter Japanese home waters. She dropped anchor in Sagami Bay to help cover initial airborne landings at the Atsugi airfield.

On Sept. 1, the Colorado was in Tokyo Bay supporting occupation forces in that area. The following day the official instrument of surrender was signed aboard the Battleship Missouri. Within the month, the Colorado was returning home.

Those who manned her take just pride in the Colorado's war record. As Americans went to war in 1941, the U.S.S. Colorado remained the only major active fleet unit in the Pacific standing between our country and a Jap naval attack. In the ten major invasions and occupation support actions in which she participated, more than 5,802 tons of firepower was met by the enemy ground troops and fortifications. The Colorado's pilot house displays 11 Japanese flags representing enemy planes knocked out of the sky. During the war she cruised over 150,000 miles and lost 77 crew members, had six missions, and 388 wounded.

In January 1946, the mighty Colorado reported to Bremerton, Wash., to be deactivated. She was waterproofed and rust-proofed and placed out of commission a year later. In 1959 the Colorado was stricken from the Navy list.

Taps have sounded for the three Colorados. They all were given the same fate — sold and scrapped. But their logs will always be maintained in the annals of Navy history — for these ships have indeed contributed to building of the greatest Navy the world has known — the United States Navy.

ARTS CHRONICLE by John Fetter

Bishop Nash Paintings Show Strength, Vastness

BISHOP NASH — The exhibit of paintings by Bishop Nash in a one-man show at the Colorado Springs National Bank is a significant event in the downtown area. It is the first serious one-man show to be staged in a long time, and also the beginning of an entirely new series of one-man shows. In the past, the First National Bank has also been most generous with space for displaying the paintings of local artists, and the Exchange National has shown work by artists, too, as well as other downtown businesses. In the down-rooming economy of Colorado Springs, it is often culture, such as paintings, music, the theater and similar arts, that is a strong attraction for people who want to come and settle here, and that even economy-wise it is a splendid move to encourage the arts in general.

The paintings, by the way, have been distributed in the lobbies of the bank with a great deal of thought and taste, showing how well they can be used to enrich the atmosphere, not always necessarily consciously, but often unconsciously, or subconsciously, much as music is being used in many therapeutic ways these days in more and more situations.

As to the paintings of Nash, they could perhaps be classified as abstract impressionism, except that in some cases the figure comes out quite strongly, now, such as in the "portrait" paintings, for instance. But Nash is not known only for his treatment of the figurative abstractions (perhaps we are coining a new term here) but for the colors of his paintings as well. They are strong and extremely subtle at the same time. This may sound like a contradiction, but really is not. It is not simply the exact shading of the color which is as important, as the juxtaposition, be it in red, yellow, black, green, mustard brown, or similar strong shades, and their existence, as such.

But the significant thing about Bishop Nash as a painter is that he is one with a very strong immediate visual impact. This he achieves not only through the various media of expression, of largeness of the painting, the colors, the lines, etc., but also by what we perhaps could call the strong surfaces and tensions which they generate within the framework, so that the ultimate impact is that of immediate, yet highly sophisticated strength.

In other words, there is nothing "small" about Bishop Nash's paintings. Even the ones smaller in size are in their conception, and this is perhaps their prime quality and virtue, if we are to speak about the really important spheres of art, namely the psychological impact (formerly referred to as esthetic) which contemporary art shows. It is the subtle interplay between vastness and strength, which sets up a kind of polarity in the paintings of Bishop Nash, and places them among the unique, significant painting experiences in this part of the country.

ART GUILD AUCTION — This will be 8 p.m., April 25, in Perkins Hall, Colorado College. As announced before, this is the only annual fund-raising project conducted by the Guild. The proceeds finance the Outdoor Art Show and ten per cent goes to supplement the Welfare Fund. We might add at this point, that in the past, the Art Guild Welfare Fund, which is a private club fund (that is, administered by the club itself, without the interference of any governmental agency) has done some remarkable things in the past in the nature of helping artists. Members who wish to be asked to donate some object participate in the auction will of art which will be auctioned off by Shirley Copp, to the highest bidder. Guild officers, however, reminded would be donors of art, frames, ceramics, jewelry, is similar objects, that this will not be a rummage sale, on the contrary. In the past, the quality of the donations has been high. In addition as is suitable at auctions, the Guild will also sell hot coffee, homemade cakes, breads, cookies, candies, jellies, preserves, etc. In other words, it should be a real, honest-to-goodness old-fashioned, fine get-together. Donations may be left with Earle Gardner at 2510 Balboa, or Ernestine Parsons, 525 N. Weber, before the auction date, or may be brought at least half an hour before the auction to Perkins Hall. Perhaps needless to mention, but to remind nevertheless the general public that this is the one time in the year where they can pick up real art bargains for their homes. The Art Guild also reported that among new recent members who joined the local organizations are Sandy Kayne, Mrs. Robert L. Wittnevel and Mrs. Robert Charles.

Leisuretime Viewing

The networks will mark Easter Sunday with a series of special religious shows and a special program featuring the Beverly Hillbillies and inhabitants of Marineland.

Among the outstanding Easter Sunday features will be NBC's annual presentation of the "Way of the Cross," noon, channel 5. The hour-long color special was first presented in 1960 and since then has been repeated each Easter.

Filmed in the Holy Land without actors, the show symbolically traces the steps of Christ as He walked to His Crucifixion. Documentary techniques are used to show the scenes of Christ's life, beginning with His birthplace in Bethlehem and culminating in His last hours on earth and the Resurrection. To enjoy this beautiful production to its fullest, it should be seen in color if possible.

Granny, Jethro and Elly May get together SUNDAY to play water games with the fishes and mermaids at Marineland of the Pacific on CBS's "Marineland Carnival," 5 p.m., channel 11. Irene, Ryan, Max Baer and Donna Douglas are joined by comic Cliff Norton, underwater swimmer Zale Perry, the Smothers Brothers and the Les Brown orchestra, not to mention the fish, for the spectacular.

Jethro, or Max as his father knows him, races Dan Lichty in one segment and then gives it up to pursue the mermaid, Miss Perry who is a former Olympic champion.

Elly May takes up with those Dolphin critters, cavorting with the playful swimmers in their own backyard. Not equipped with fins, thank goodness, Miss Douglas dons a skin divers' suit for this segment while Granny takes on some walrus in a disciplining lesson of sorts.

"Discovery '64," ABC's outstanding children's show, will present the first half of a two-part exploration of the American cowboy SUNDAY (noon, channel 13). "The Cowboys Who Used to Be," is the title of the first segment. It traces the history of the American cowboy and originates from the Arizona Historical Society Museum. Host Frank Buxton discusses the life and times of the old West, the development of the saddle and the history of cattle brands.

Using authentic branding irons, Buxton will demonstrate how the old cattle kings registered their brands, and how those brands could be changed by a rustler's running iron. Also to be seen are an authentic stagecoach and chuckwagon. The second segment of the show, "The Cowboys That Are," will be presented next week.

The Leisuretime Viewing spotlight centers on:

"The Defenders," SATURDAY (6:30 p.m., channel 11) which guest stars Susan Oliver as a psychiatric patient who kills her doctor's fiancé. "The Hidden Fury," finds the Prestons trying to save the life of the mental patient who fell in love with her doctor and killed in a jealous rage.

"Tax Cut: Facts and Fallacies," will examine the many aspects of the new federal tax law, with special emphasis on how it will affect the group that pays most of the taxes SUNDAY (3 p.m., channel 5). Robert Abernethy is anchorman for the special program with actor Ralph Bellamy, president of Actor's Equity, discussing the portion of the law which permits averaging of incomes for those whose earnings fluctuate drastically year to year.

Harry Belafonte makes his first appearance of the television season SUNDAY on "The Ed Sullivan Show," (6 p.m., channel 11). Belafonte and the Belafonte Singers, a 12-voice male choir, will be featured in an extended segment on the weekly variety show. Scheduled selections range from the West Indian ballad "Sailor Man," to Negro work songs like "Look Over Yonder."

Sullivan's other guests include comedian Jack Carter and the talent division winner of the Miss Teen Age America contest.

Telly Savalas and Michael Dunn, drawl star of the Broadway play, "The Ballad of the Sad Cafe," guest star SUNDAY on "Arrest and Trial," (7:30 p.m., channel 13). In "The Revenge of the Worm," Savalas is a truck driver who becomes a victim of the loan sharks and when the big boys in the black shirts and white ties begin threatening his family, he shoots a racket leader.

Nick Adams and Nancy Malone guest star on MONDAY's segment of "The Outer Limits," (6:30 p.m., channel 13) as a couple selected to fight for the life of the planet Earth against a couple from another planet. In "Fun and Games," Earth will be destroyed in five years if the couple loses the battle.

The vivacious Janet Blair joins Red Skeleton TUESDAY (6 p.m., channel 11) for fun and games Skeleton style. In the story production Miss Blair is a millionaire who prefers giving her money to help needy animals and things while Red as Freddie the Freeloader tries to convince her that hapless hoboos are kind of animals too and need a wayside home. Later Miss Blair sings and Red plays a bashful prince in the "Silent Spot."

Mike Walker, second son of the late Robert Walker to follow in his father's footsteps as an actor, makes his TV debut TUESDAY guest starring as a problem student on "Mr. Novak," (9 p.m., channel 5). Young Walker plays the role of a problem student in "Moment Without Honor." The youth's problems are complicated because he resembles the person who attacked the assistant principal of the school.

The east-slope of the Colorado Rockies guest stars in WEDNESDAY's segment of "Suspense," (6:30 p.m., channel 11). Charles Bickford stars as a man anxious to prove to himself that he can live an active life despite a heart attack in "I, Christopher Bell." After his attack, Bell returns to the Colorado Rockies and attempts to climb Bar Rock on his own, a feat he accomplished in the past with a team of mountaineers.

Dorothy Collins and Howard Morris guest star on the "Danny Kaye Show," WEDNESDAY (8 p.m., channel 11). Howie and Danny take in a lonely hearts club dance with Danny as the slickest man in the world and Howie as a suave, confident Romero. The boys get together with Dorothy for a spoof of her old show, "Your Hit Parade," then Harvey Korman joins the boys for a bull-fighting segment in Spain with Danny as the fearless matador.

"Vietnam: The Deadly Decision," will be aired WEDNESDAY, (10:30 p.m., channel 11) by the CBS News department. Charles Collingwood interviews Madame Ngo Dinh Nhu, sister-in-law of the deposed late President of the war-torn country. The show will point up the critical decisions facing this country in its involvement with the little Asiatic nation which is caught in a death struggle against the influx of communism.

Robert Taylor's "The White Horse" Barterment League in a crusade to save a tree from being chopped down on "My Three Sons," THURSDAY, (7:30 p.m., channel 13). The problems arise when Robbie's current girl friend lines up with the group fighting to have the tree chopped down.

Diana Lynn is guest star THURSDAY (8 p.m., channel 11) on "The Nurses," in a story dealing with a student nurse whose emotions interfere with her professional duties. In "A Kind of Loving," Miss Lynn, as the student nurse, finds herself involved in a complex situation involving a mental patient.

New Opera To Premiere

"Martin's Lie," a new opera by Gian-Carlo Menotti, one of the world's most celebrated contemporary composers, which was commissioned by the CBS Television Network, will receive its American premiere as a one-hour special on the Network during the 1964-65 season.

The work will have its world premiere June 3 through June 6, when it will be performed in Bristol Cathedral, Bristol, England, as part of the world-renowned Bath, England, festival. Subsequent to these performances, the opera will be taped at a studio in Bristol for presentation on the CBS Television Network.

"Martin's Lie" takes place in Medieval Europe in an orphan home. It concerns the dramatic choice that a little boy must make between truth and love. The conflict is heightened by the fact that by lying Martin saves the life of a man who perhaps is not worthy of his love and of his ultimate sacrifice.

Anya Deva Angadi, 11-year-old Hindu boy discovered by Menotti, will make his professional debut in the role of Martin. Others in the cast are William MacAlpine, tenor; Noreen Berry, mezzo-soprano; Donald McIntyre, baritone, and Raymond Herinex, bass.

Frog Earned $3 Million

Smiley Burnette claims to have earned more than three million dollars wearing the tattered Western hat of Frog Milhouse, batrachian-voiced sidekick of Gene Autry, Roy Rogers and Charles Starrett.

The rotund hero of the pistol-and-popcorn set — including three generations of fans — was designated by motion picture exhibitors as one of the top 10 money-making Western stars for 10 years in a row.

Then, for the first time in 29 years, the 52-year-old comic actor felt it was time for a change.

Burnette has traded his horse and hat for a wood-burning locomotive and blue-striped engineer's cap in the role of railroad Charley Pratt, operator of the creaking Hooterville Junction, on "Petcoat Junction," Tuesdays on the CBS Television Network, 8:00-9:30 p.m. EST.

Altho he has doffed the dusty Stetson for his first important non-Western character, Burnette has little fear that Frog Milhouse will be forgotten, at least 108 of his Western pictures are still running on television stations all over the country.

Altogether he has made 171 full-length Westerns — 81 with Autry, seven with Rogers, 64 with Starrett, and others with various stars. He has appeared in 15 serials and four short subjects.

He is also the star of a transcribed radio series broadcast on more than 250 stations. Some sponsors have repeated the

AP Newsfeatures

David Douglas Duncan is a unique personality in the world of photography, unique in his individualistic attitude, in his conversation which seems to light up and take wings when discussing photography and in his zealous drive to tackle new horizons in photo techniques.

Why would a camera artist who has produced such notable picture books as the "Private World of Pablo Picasso," "The Kremlin" and "Picasso's Picassos" — all artistic, financial and photographic triumphs — want to seek a new approach, a new way to take pictures?

"After many years, I was bored with straight photography," he said bluntly. "I was looking for a new excitement, a new challenge. Picasso probably started my restlessness by needling me about the unchanging format of photography, its lack of creative self-expression."

"I didn't know what I was looking for," Duncan recalled. "... then I found it! It was in an optical shop in Germany. I was shown a special lens combined with a prism intended for a television camera for trick effects. I began to think of ways of adapting it to my Nikon camera."

"It started a period of experimentation and changes. Many months of picture taking brought forth my own designs with multiple lenses, different prism surfaces and ways to attach the contraption to the camera. I wound up with a 25-pound camera 'bazooka' which gave me exciting new images."

Duncan's use of the odd-ball camera, particularly in interpreting Paris and some of its artists and writers, received a dramatic, colorful display in a recent Saturday Evening Post. It led, too, to a citation awarded by the French Cultural Embassy for combining this unique view of Paris with artistic superiority in photography.

The multivisioned pictures, all in color, are different, eye-catching and provocative. But not everyone is convinced they are better than Duncan's earlier work. There was excitement enough in straight photography when he covered the Korean crisis in 1950 resulting in his first book, "This is War." It remains a dramatic portfolio of men in battle.

In the following six years he photographed almost every trouble spot around the world. Perhaps excitement became routine and it was time for a change. In 1957 he resigned from his globe-trotting magazine job and focused on a new challenge — art and his friend Picasso.

Today Duncan and his wife make their home in Cannes, France, where he designs and publishes his own books. He is presently starting work on an autobiography and has assembled the pictures he made as a youngster, as a Life staff photographer, Marine Corps combat cameraman and as a free-lancer.

Springs Symphony Dual Success

Music Sweet in Concert; Sweeter at Box-Office

By JIM GLEN

Gazette Telegraph Staff Writer

Colorado Springs Symphony Orchestra is one of the two orchestras in the entire USA which operates within a balanced budget and is in the black.

When one considers that most other symphony orchestras throughout the country are in trouble, the New York Philharmonic now has a deficit of a quarter of a million dollars, citizens of this community can be justly proud, proud of the support they give their orchestra and proud of the orchestra.

An all-orchestral program of works by Tchaikowsky, Villa-Lobos, Weber and Vivaldi will be presented Thursday night in the final concert of the season.

It will be held at 8:30 p.m. in the Ralston High School Auditorium.

The orchestra was first formed in 1932 by Dr. Frederick Boothroyd who is now retired and lives in Colorado Springs. Originally the group containing some 30 musicians was called the Symphonic Ensemble, but as it rapidly expanded, the name was changed shortly afterwards to the one it bears today.

Dr. Boothroyd conducted until 1953 when he retired and the present conductor, Walter Eisenberg, a graduate of New York's Juilliard School of Music and a native of Philadelphia took over the podium.

His wife, also a Juilliard graduate, is concert master.

Today the orchestra has about 75 players, all full-time school teachers, housewives, members of the military and business people, but "of professional caliber" as Eisenberg is quick to point out and anyone who has heard them will certainly agree.

"It is an amazing thing that in a community of this size we have an orchestra with such professional standards," Conductor Eisenberg said recently to the writer.

Frequently the group work under difficulties which would send more temperamental maestros into acute shock. Rehearsals are held once a week as the players, with other obligations, cannot constantly be available. Moreover the rehearsals are held at the end of a working day when everyone is not as fresh as he or she might be, and each concert is allotted five or six rehearsals.

Compare this to the schedule of a full-time professional orchestra whose job is only to produce music and who rehearse steadily every day while they are alert and rested.

Another hazard facing Eisenberg is that all too often only parts of the orchestra can be rehearsed as some musicians cannot be present. Frequently, the conductor said, the only time all the players are together is for the final rehearsal and for the public performance.

Even then Eisenberg cannot be certain everyone will turn up. He quoted a recent case when an important player was detained because of military duty. Someone had to fill in at the last moment.

"We have got to duplicate and produce professional results as we cannot offer any excuses," said Eisenberg.

When visiting soloists perform with the orchestra there is only time for one rehearsal, another factor not likely to relax the emotional tension which is indigenous to any public performance in the concert hall, theatre or opera house.

But somehow Eisenberg and his musicians rise above it and when one contemplates these difficulties the results in the concert hall can only be described as staggering.

Conductor Eisenberg feels strongly that he and his orchestra owe an obligation to the community and no member spares himself to repay this debt "in full." "After all," said the conductor, "we get more support per capita than any other city comparable in size."

Support for the orchestra has steadily risen and in 1964 it leaped to the astonishing figure of a 700 per cent increase. It has increased steadily ever since.

Each member of the ensemble is paid union rates and visiting guest artists receive the same fee as they would get were they playing with the Boston Symphony Orchestra or any of the other big name organizations.

Naturally this prevents some of today's greater luminaries of the concert platform or opera house from performing but when one remembers that Robert Merrill, Milstein, Stern and Albanese have appeared, the orchestra and Colorado Springs can boast they have heard the best.

Discussing fees paid to guest soloists, Eisenberg mentioned the name of a young, internationally known concert artist who took first place in a worldwide competition a few years back.

Before he won the prize, he had indicated that his fee to play here would be $500. The directors and conductor were agreeable but arrangements bogged down and finally collapsed.

After the young artist's success and several million words of free publicity later, negotiations were re-opened. His fee had gone up - gone up to $10,000.

Such artists are beyond any orchestra except the richest in the country but where is there a rich orchestra today? Almost all of them operate with an annual deficiency but not Colorado Springs Symphony Orchestra.

We are extremely lucky to have such a fine orchestra in our midst and even luckier that it is in such healthy financial shape. It's everyone's job who is interested in what is sometimes called "good music," to keep it that way.

PORT MORESBY—New Guinea cattle ranchers say they are looking for a heartier breed to raise here.

FACES FOR THE HANDS — You can match up the faces to the hands on today's covers by the instruments they are holding. From left are Walter Eisenberg, director; David Austin, violin; Grace Bragioni, flute; Arnold Schaffer, trombone; Carolyn Shepard, French horn, and Earl Juhas, clarinet.

'The Rogues' Set for Fall

A new full-hour suspense drama series in the Raffles tradition "The Rogues" will be a weekly presentation on the NBC-TV Network next season.

Gig Young, David Niven and Charles Boyer will co-star in the series, which will be telecast Sundays, starting Sept. 13. Gladys Cooper and Robert Coote will be featured regulars.

Four Star Television will produce "The Rogues" in association with NBC.

The principal characters of "The Rogues" are members of two related families of well-mannered international forgers and conmen — the Flemings and the St. Clairs — who take pride in their "profession," eschew violence and prey on those who have "too much for their own good." Their existence gives employment to Interpol, Scotland Yard, the Surete Generale, the FBI and other law-enforcement agencies the world over.

Heading the American, English and French contingents of the clan are, respectively, Tony Fleming (Gig Young), Alec Fleming (David Niven) and Marcel St. Clair (Charles Boyer). Margaret St. Clair (Gladys Cooper), which principal function is acting as housemother for the clan, is aunt to both Alec and Tony and mother of Timmy (Robert Coote), a master of disguise and impersonation. Young in heart, living by their wits in a world of wealth, the rogues are interested in the game, not the gain. More often than not, they donate the spoils of their adventures to others deserving of them.

Sleeping on Air

On small boats, the soft spot for sleeping is atop an air mattress. It offers considerable comfort and, when deflated and rolled up, doesn't require much storage space. Before leaving on a cruise, check it out for leaks. A mattress that runs out of air in the middle of the night is hardly an asset.

Free Choice Is Under Attack. Book Charges

THE ATTACK ON OUR FREE CHOICE — by Merryle Stanley Rukeyser - Monarch - 75 cents - In drawing up the United States Constitution, America's founders were dedicated to providing the unalienable right of individual free choice. They had watched the march of history through Europe, and deliberately undertook to provide safeguards against varying degrees of dictatorship. They had in mind protecting the people against a strong and grasping Executive branch by setting up a system of checks and balances.

How that system has been circumvented, ignored, manipulated and otherwise violated, is the subject of the book by Rukeyser. He has been a syndicated economic columnist for many years, a consultant to presidents and other high government officials, and a very readable critic of government.

Rukeyser says that Communists and "liberals," unable to remove Constitutional safeguards by legal means, try to make varying degrees of regimentation seem more glamorous and "progressive" than freedom.

He says that attack on free choice is by no means restricted ed to Marxists and liberals. It is also made by public officials grasping for power without always recognizing the implications of what they may be doing. He gives as examples the Interstate Commerce Commission's restrictive power over railroads, and the TVA's similar control over electric power in the huge Tennessee Valley.

The author's thesis is that the depressed 1930's created a political and intellectual movement which disturbed the long-range balance and enlarged the scope and responsibility of government in the lives of all Americans. And he says, that scope has been widening ever since. The trend which dangerously weakened the American tradition of self-help, was promoted by the contention that it represented growing awareness of social and humane responsibilities by government.

Its real danger, Rukeyser asserts, lies in the fact that the American people are losing the right to disagree; that through misinformation they can be lulled into a false sense of security, and that via "pie-in-the-sky" political promises, they are losing their right to free choice.

THE IMAGE OF AFRICA By Philip D. Curtin. The University of Wisconsin Press. $8.00.

This work is a well written scholarly account of the formation of the British colonial policy toward Africa in the years 1780-1850. It is for the serious reader who desires to take the time to familiarize himself with the background of many contemporary African problems and the origination of some of our own race difficulties. This book is also to be recommended to the college professor who is searching for supplementary reading material to assign his students concerning various phases of British colonial policy, the slave trade or African history. It would serve well as a text in a college course in British ideas and action toward Africa in the period covered.

In the subject book the author traces the history of British policy toward Africa from the acquisition of knowledge of the dark continent from the early Arabian writers to the humanitarian concepts prevalent in the policy in the 1840s and later. In between he describes the first British sponsored and private explorations of the Niger and adjacent areas, the early attempts to settle Sierra Leone and the problems of the Europeans with African fevers that made their mortality rates approach and equal 100 per cent.

The book is exhaustively documented. It possesses many fine illustrations together with an appendix and an index of 35 pages.

If a criticism of this work is to be made, it is that it is factual to the point that its people do not live and its events seem unreal.

The author, Philip D. Curtin, graduated from Swarthmore College and holds M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from Harvard. He is presently a Professor of History at the University of Wisconsin. He is the author of another work, TWO JAMACIAS. In THE IMAGE OF AFRICA he has added a fine contribution to an often neglected field. —R.B. Murray

'Dr. Lao' at Ute Theatre

The "7 Faces of Dr. Lao", now playing at the Ute Theatre, is an unusual fantasy in color and with excellent special effects.

Tony Randall (Dr. Lao) rides into the dying western town of Abalone and takes an ad in the newspaper run by John Ericson announcing his circus. He also takes quite an interest in the affairs of the town, which is run by wealthy Arthur O'Connell, who is buying up all the land ostensibly as a charitable gesture. In reality, he alone knows that the railroad plans to come through Abalone. The elderly Chinese circus owner also befriends the young son of widowed Barbara Eden and observes the problems she has in a romance with Ericson.

The whole town turns out for the circus, and all of Dr. Lao's associates are also played by Randall. He reveals the innermost souls of the townspeople through the magic of Pan, Apollonius, Merlin, a serpent, Medusa, etc. O'Connell's sidekicks try to destroy the circus and accidentally let loose a fish which turns into an immense seven-headed, fire-breathing dragon. Dr. Lao finally subdues the monster via a rain-making machine, turning it back into a harmless fish.

All the townsfolk are wiser for their experiences and O'Connell decides to share his secret with the rest of the town. Prosperity is in Abalone's future as Randall rides off to set up his fantastic circus somewhere else.

THIS IS A TURKEY?—Bill Garcia welds the framework of what eventually will be a concrete turkey designed for kids to romp on. The turkey, and the silo, rear, are part of a farm yard display to be placed in Dochester Park this summer. William T. Province, planner and designer for the City Park and Recreation Department, checks the progress of the work.

City to Build Farm in Park This Summer

New playground apparatus in the form of farm buildings and animals for Dorchester Park is being fabricated in City Park and Recreation Department shops.

Department Director Stuart Richter said the reinforcing bar framework for the silo has been welded together as well as some of the animals for the merry-go-round and swing.

These frameworks will be covered with a two to four inch layer of concrete with a special finish and waxed where there are sliding surfaces.

Richter said it was hoped to finish the play apparatus so that it can be installed in Dorchester Park in the late spring or early summer.

Thanks to an anonymous donor who gave a sizeable amount of money, Dorchester Park this summer will create the illusion that children are playing in a farm or ranch yard.

The silo, which also could be called a barn, will be about nine feet high. The merry-go-round will have chickens and turkeys for seats while a turkey, dove or guinea hen will be utilized as seats for the swing.

Money given by the anonymous donor will be used to purchase materials while city workers will supply the labor, machinery to build the play pieces and install them.

Stamps in the News

A beauty queen on a postage stamp? Yes, and a welcome addition to the world of philately it is.

The government of Jamaica receives the kudos for issuing a set of three new stamps commemorating the success of Miss Carole Jean Crawford in the 1963 "Miss World" competition. Each stamp depicts a full-length view of the pretty Miss Crawford attired in a bathing suit, holding the scepter of her championship and wearing the crown as queen on her auburn hair. In the background, flanked by palm trees, is the throne. At the sides of the stamp are the inscriptions "Miss Jamaica 1963" and "Miss World 1963." The 3 pence is green, 1 shilling brown and 1-6 blue.

Papua and New Guinea have issued a new set of stamps honoring the first "Common Roll" elections to be held in that territory. There are two stamps in the set of identical design but different denominations. Featured on the stamps is a dark hand placing a ballot in a ballot box. The inscription atop the adhesive reads "First Common Roll Election 1964."

France has issued a new Civil Defense stamp dedicated to firemen, reports the French Ministry of Posts and Telecommunications in Paris. The new stamp shows three emblems: the arms of the Regiment of Firemen of Paris, created in 1811 by Napoleon I; the emblem of the National Federation of Firemen of France, founded in 1881; and the emblem of the Battalion of Marine Firemen in Marseille, organized in 1939.

Ethiopia has issued a new set of five values honoring great empresses of Ethiopia. This is the third in a series of Ancient Leaders stamps from designs by Afework Tekle. The 10 cents features the Queen of Sheba, 990 B. C.; the 15 cents depicts Empress Helen, 1500 A. D.; the Seble-Wongel, 1530 A. D.; the 60 cents shows Empress Mentiwab, 1730 A. D.; the 80 cents pictures Empress Taitu, 1890 A. D.

To Produce Dollar Bill Costs Less Than Cent

Have you ever wondered how paper money (currency) is made? Where it is made and what steps go into the design and printing of our bills? What happens to the "old" bills?

Even though you may not be a currency collector, or even a coin collector, a study of the production of paper money is a good background in the science of numismatics.

Paper money is comparatively new in the United States as it was not officially issued by our government until 1862. It was in that year that the Bureau of Printing and Engraving was established as a part of the Treasury Department.

The production of currency in this country has made such strides in recent years and the cost of mass production has been reduced to such a point that it is now possible to produce notes — regardless of their denomination for less than one cent!

The design to be used on a new series of bills, or notes as they are more correctly referred to, is given to the Bureau of Printing and Engraving where they prepare a model in the Engraving Department. This completed model is then returned to the Secretary of the Treasury where it is approved and then returned to the Bureau of Engraving.

On its return, the model is reproduced in soft steel by engravers, each working with a tool known as a graver. Many engravers are needed to make the master die as each separate portion such as the portrait, lettering, vignette and ornaments are executed separately by experts who specialize in individual branches of the engraver's art.

After its completion, the master die is heated in cyanide of potassium and then dipped in oil or brine to harden it. The die is next placed on the bed of a transfer press, and under many tons of pressure, the design is transferred onto a cylinder of soft steel, called a roll. Then the roll is hardened.

Again through pressure, the design is transferred, this time to steel plates on which the design is etched Intaglio, or cut-in exactly as on the original master die.

The completed plates are now hardened, cleaned and made ready for the printer, or the Printing Bureau.

Actually, about 2,800 tons of ink are manufactured each year in the Printing Bureau. More than a 1,000 tons of special paper are used each year. This is a special paper, containing fine threads of blue and red nylon. Look at a note and these threads are visible to the naked eye. Nylon in recent years has replaced silk which for many years was a distinguishing factor in the paper used in printing notes.

The paper is secured from a private manufacturer, a firm that has been making special papers since before this country was a nation. Now their entire output is for the United States government from paper mills where the security precautions are as rigid as those guarding our dwindling supply of gold bullion at Ft. Knox.

This special paper is received in special packages of 1000 sheets and on arrival first goes to the Wetting Division where it is counted and moistened.

The sheets are then seasoned for several days after which they are ready to be printed. Prior to 1957 the flat power-plate printing presses were capable of printing only 18 notes to a sheet but since then the Bureau has installed more modern equipment that prints a sheet of 32 notes at each impression.

The plates after being inked with rubber rollers, are pressed against the moistened paper, which absorbs the ink, making it an integral part of the note itself. After the printing process is completed on both the obverse and reverse sides, they are put through a sizing operation which gives a better finish to the currency itself and also strengthens the paper itself by making it more resistant to both dirt, grease and wear.

The final operation, or process, is the "sealing" and the numbering of the notes which is done by the Numbering Division of the Bureau of Printing and Engraving.

On some notes the signatures of the proper officials, (it is C. Douglas Dillon, Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. Kathryn E. Granahan, Treasurer of the United States at the present time) are printed in facsimile during the numbering and sealing process while on other notes it is accomplished by engraving the signatures of the proper officials into the face, or obverse plate for the printing of the notes.

The entire process is a check and check again to be sure that every piece of paper is accounted for and that every number assigned to a bill is actually used. In case a note is spoiled, then that number must be used again, (this indicated by the use of a star preceding the serial number on a bill) hence you can see the star bills have no value other than their face value, lest anyone become confused in examining their currency.

The average life of a $1 note is about thirteen months and the larger denominations last even longer as they circulate with less frequency and are handled with more care and respect. A $1 bill is wadded, folded, etc. and crammed into the pockets or stuffed into a woman's pocket book but if it is a "C" note, ($100) there is a special folding and handling and with a "G" I'm sure it would be even more so but I've no experience with the "G" notes.

TW3 Girl Is D.C. Socialite

"TW3 Girl" Nancy Ames is a folk-singing member of society's elite. The lovely blonde who delivers the singing news commentary on NBC TV's "That Was the Week That Was" is the granddaughter of a former President of Panama (who is currently Vice President of the World Court in the Hague), and her father is a socially prominent Washington, D. C. physician, Dr. Victor Ricardo Alfaro.

Nancy was born Nancy Hamilton Alfaro in Washington. She studied at Holton Arms prep and later attended Bennett College in Millbrook, N. Y., where she studied physics, philosophy, psychology and Romance languages (she still speaks fluent French, Spanish and Italian), trained for the Olympic swim team, dived, rode horseback, played basketball and did ice-skating.

Not long after her graduation from Bennett the theatre beckoned, and Nancy found herself well prepared. Always interested in drama and the arts, she had studied classical and modern ballet for eight years, and had taken TV production as a minor in college. Her Junior League activities ran to co-directing, choreographing, producing and starring in the Hexagon Club Musicals — shows built upon political and social satire which were done annually to benefit charity.

PUPPET SHOW — The Lesellie Marionettes rehearse a scene from "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" to be shown next Saturday at the Fine Arts Center. Performances will be at 10:30 a.m., 2 p.m. and 4 p.m. Tickets are on sale at the Arts Center desk at 25 cents for children and 75c for adults. The program is presented annually as part of the children's theatre program. Lesellie and Ellie Heath, who are the Lesellis, have become favorites of area children during performances here over the past several years.

Central City to Present New Opera by Robert Ward

Two famous women, one fictional, one who has become Colorado legend, will share the spotlight when the 33rd annual Central City Opera Festival opens on June 27.

Stepping on to the hundred-year-old opera house stage on opening night this summer will be the beautiful Japanese girl Butterfly who has been immortalized for opera lovers by Giacomo Puccini in his opera "Madame Butterfly".

On July 3, a new operatic work, "The Lady From Colorado", will have its World Premiere. Commissioned by the Central City Opera House Association, "The Lady From Colorado" is the work of composer Robert Ward and librettist Bernard Stambler. This same composer-librettist team won the Publitzer Prize for their opera "The Crucible".

The last original opera that was commissioned by the Central City Opera House Association was "The Ballad of Baby Doe" which had its premiere in Central City in 1957. "Baby Doe" has become a standard operatic work and performances of it have been presented all over the world.

"The Lady From Colorado" is based on the life of Katie Lawder who lived in the little settlement of Elkhorn, Colorado, a few miles west of Ft. Collins in the 1890s. While operating the local laundry, she met and fell in love with an English Nobleman, Sir Richard Moon, who later in his life inherited a fortune and a title.

The Lady Moor story became a legend during the thirties and in the forties it was serialized on the radio as the famous show "Our Gal Sunday".

The two operas, "Madame Butterfly" and "The Lady From Colorado" will alternate performances in the world famous Central City Opera House until July 25.

A cast of internationally famous opera stars is now being assembled by the Central City Opera House Association. Tickets are on sale by mail only exclusively for Colorado residents.

Family Affair

Producer Harold Hecht, who recently filmed "Wild and Wonderful" starring Tony Curtis and Christie Kaufmann for Universal release, firmly believes that a family that plays together stays together. Monsieur Cognac, the French poodle playing the title role has his father as a stand-in, a brother substituting for long shots and another brother as a stunt double.

SQUARE 'EM UP! by Lou Maddock

Crucial Test for Dancers Comes After Graduation

Spencer Yates graduated another class last Monday at the Electricians hall. A number of invited guests were present to witness the dancers' ability and to dance with them. The students passed their tests and showed their skill at dancing and proved that they have learned their lessons well. They were awarded diplomas which entitles them to dance with the clubs, and most of them have joined the Circle B and ordered their badges. Refreshments were served and a social hour followed the dance.

The transition from a class to a full-fledged member of a club is probably the most crucial time for the new square dancer. The sudden change of night, place, and people, and the realization that they must now dance with much more experienced dancers, is enough to undermine the confidence of the finest dancers.

This is the time that the older club members must more than meet the new members half-way in an attempt to make them feel they "belong." Patience and an atmosphere of friendliness will go a long way toward determining whether the new member becomes a "drop-out" or remains as a confirmed square dancer for many years to come. Each member should talk to the new members, dance with them, never let them sit by themselves during intermissions, and never imply by word or action that you expect them to be perfect and that you do not make mistakes (they'll find out how wrong that is very shortly).

Friendliness must be met half-way by the new members, too. Do not go sit in a corner of the room by yourself during intermissions, or be the last one on the floor to fill the squares. Go out of your way to talk to the older members. They are probably as shy about talking to strangers as you are. Everybody was a beginner once; everybody goes once in a while, but all share the mutual enjoyment with friends and acquaintances.

The dance at the Shrine Club sponsored by the Question Marks and featuring Selmer Hovland was attended by nine sets and everyone enjoyed Selmer's usual enthusiastic calling.

The Country Two Steppers will dance two Wednesdays in succession. Wednesday night this week was the Whing Ding which had to be postponed one week, and the next regular dance is next Wednesday, with Don Franklin calling. All dancers are welcome to participate in the dances, and spectators are welcome to watch.

The 9th Annual Square Dance Roundup will be held in the University Memorial Center Ballroom, University of Colorado, Boulder, Saturday, April 11. Dancing is from 8 to 11:30 p.m. Johnny Le Clair of River-ton, Wyo. will call the dance, as he has done since it began nine years ago. There is a free workshop in the afternoon from 2 to 4 p.m. The square dance is limited to 80 squares. Tickets may be had by writing to Bob Cline, P.O. Box 44, Boulder. There is a donation of $2.00 per couple. The Spring Roundup is sponsored by the Boulder Area Square Dance Council, and is one of the biggest and most successful dances held within Colorado.

REHEARSAL—Three members of the Colorado College Choir rehearse with director Charles Adams. David Clapp and Peggy Donald Jenkins prior to leaving this week. (Herald)

CC Choir on Concert Tour During Spring Vacation

The 55-voice Colorado College Choir is currently on a concert tour of eight Eastern and Mid-western states.

The first concert was given in Indianapolis, Ind., Friday night.

Arnold Schonberg's seldom performed "Opus 13: Friede Auf Erden" is one of four works to be sung by the choir, under the direction of Prof. Donald P. Jenkins, during the two-week spring vacation tour.

"Opus 13," for a capella choir of eight parts, was composed in 1907, shortly before Schonberg began his experiments with the twelve tone technique. The work, a setting of Konrad Ferdinand Meyer's poem "Friede Auf Erden" (Peace on Earth), reflects the transitional spirit of the early twentieth century composers — the beginnings of contemporary forms and moods, the retention of late romantic harmonic progressions.

Works to be performed include the Motet No. 1, "Sing Ye to the Lord," by J. S. Bach; Verdi's setting of the Pater Noster; and Psalm 116 by Johann Schein. There also will be several shorter compositions and a series of Easter anthems and Negro spirituals.

Professor Jenkins holds two undergraduate degrees from Oberlin College and a master's degree in choral conducting from the Julliard School of Music. He currently is conductor of the choir and Opera Workshop at Colorado College. His choral experience ranges from work in summer theaters to church and professional conducting.

Concerts are being given in Indianapolis, Ind.; Charleston, W. Va.; Pittsburgh, Pa.; Meriden, Conn.; Wappingers Falls, N.Y.; New Bedford, Mass.; New York City; Springfield, Mass.; Lancaster, Pa.; Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich.; and Park Ridge, Ill.

Globe Awards Announced

Paramount Pictures was well represented in winning categories of the Foreign Press Association's Golden Globe Awards banquet held at the Ambassador Hotel in Los Angeles, with both star Paul Newman and producer Joseph E. Levine being kudoed.

Newman, who stars in the Paramount release, "Hud," and who has been nominated for an Academy Award for his performance in the Salem production, won the coveted "World Film Favorite" award from the Foreign Press Association. Co-producer and director Martin Ritt, also nominated as Best Director by the motion picture Academy for his work in "Hud," accepted the award for Newman in the latter's absence.

Producer Levine, who has already completed "The Carpetbaggers" and "Where Love Has Gone" in conjunction with Paramount and who will start the Joseph E. Levine Embassy-Paramount co-production, "Nevada Smith," this summer at Paramount Studios, was honored at the gala affair with two awards.

Levine, who flew to Hollywood from New York for the banquet, received the Cecil B. deMille Award for "outstanding contribution in the entertainment field" with Miss Dana Wynter making the presentation.

The producer was also the recipient from Samuel Goldwyn of the Samuel Goldwyn International Film Award for the best foreign film of 1963 — the Embassy Pictures release, "Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow."

Emmy Show Set for May

The 16th annual "Emmy Awards" presentation of the National Academy of Television Arts and Science, which will be telecast on NBC-TV Monday, May 25, will originate from the Music Hall at The Texas Pavilions of the New York World's Fair and from the Palladium in Hollywood.

NBC will telecast the "Emmy Awards" for the 10th consecutive year. The program will be a combination of live, tape and film segments. Categories for the 1964 Emmys, program hosts, and names of the "presenters" will be announced.

More than 6,000 members of the academy in nine chapter cities across the U. S. vote the awards to outstanding TV programs and personalities.

COLORADO SPRINGS KENNEL CLUB NOTES

by Mary Urban

Well, the show season is fast approaching. With it come hours of grooming, training and trimming out that old, dead, winter coat. There will be times when we all wonder if it is worth it. But when the first big point show comes rolling along, the excitement begins. One hardly notices the hours of work and preparation, the long miles on the road, the expense. I guess it is true, this dog show business really gets in your blood.

Avoid of us be a lot of work, perspiration, disappointments, anger, perhaps at the "that blind judges decision," frustration and then, if we are lucky, sweet victory. Somehow, at a time like this we are all sure it is worth it.

Victory in the show ring depends most of all on what goes into the dog. First, buy the best dog you can afford. After all the competition is always stiff. Second, feed your dog properly so you can be assured of shining good health, a beautiful coat, sparkling eyes, and a happy, springing gait. Third, make sure his coat is as well groomed as possible. Fourth, make sure he has had some training and knows what to expect. The most beautiful dog in the world can look pretty silly in the ring if he makes a fool of himself and his owner. A healthy, well-groomed well-trained dog is a beautiful sight even if he doesn't bring home all the points and ribbons in the show.

I would like to express a personal opinion at this point. Make sure that exhibiting your dog in the show ring is fun for both you and your dog. Don't take the whole thing too seriously, be a good sport, accept the judges' decision gracefully whether you agree with him or not. After all showing your dog is nothing more than a game or a sport. The world will not fall apart if your "perfect" dog does not win his class. There will be another show next month, next year.

Your dog is going to behave better and be more relaxed if he thinks you are having a good time too.

BREED OF THE WEEK — The Cocker Spaniel.

The spaniel family is a large one. As far back as 1386 we find mention of the "spanyell," which was eventually divided into two groups, the land spaniel and the water spaniel.

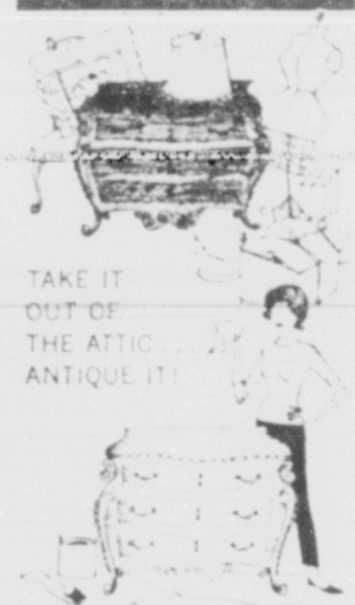

A further division separated the land spaniel according to size when the Cockers and the very small toy spaniels were separated from spaniels of larger size. The Cocker is the smallest member of the sporting-dog family.

Because the dog was so proficient at woodcock he was known by various names, "cock-er," "cocking spaniel," and finally Cocker Spaniel.

The Cocker is truly one of the most beautiful of all breeds. He has a lovely soft coat, shining big dark eyes which can melt the most hardened dog hater if need be. His medium size makes him ideal for a large home or a small apartment. He is intelligent, sensitive to human needs, he loves children. Sometimes his spirit needs training down a bit but he adapts easily.

Questions about dogs may be directed to Mrs. Gloria Urban 495 2141.
